

SURVEY FINDINGS ON HEALTH, LIBRARY AND CHARITY WORK

Another Public Health Nurse Needed, Library Needs Money and Charity Workers Should Have Central Bureau of Record and Information.

The ninth installment of the Progressive Survey of Kingston treats of public health matters, library needs and organized charities as follows:

Child Hygiene Station.
Municipalities the country over have demonstrated their power to lower their death rate. The slogan of the New York Commission of Health is: "Public Health is a Purchaseable." The death rate throughout the United States has been steadily lowered particularly in the cities where there has been congestion, and housing conditions far more difficult to deal with than are the conditions in smaller communities. The thoughtful citizen realizes today that any neglect of practical measures to protect the health of the municipality is a deliberate taking of life. A municipality has a power of control over sanitation and housing that it hasn't over the economic status of its citizens. Municipal authorities have the right to expect intelligent cooperation in putting into effect the most modern methods in sanitation and housing and this cooperation is a direct service for the conservation of life. There is no more pressing need of a municipality than health.

Health conservation begins with water supply, housing and milk inspection. Great investment has been made by cities to secure purity of water supply and there is now in every enlightened city a rigid inspection of milk supply. Infant mortality is high in cities where there is little effort made to educate the poorer classes in necessary principles of hygiene, pre-natal care of mothers, and the care of the child during its first year of life.

Dr. Baker, the head of the Department of Child Hygiene of the New York Department of Health, astonished members of a women's club in Chicago whom she was addressing by telling them that in New York they were not interested in sick babies—only in well ones. Her meaning was that care was given to keeping the child from becoming sick.

In the following table is given the death rate for 1,000 population in Kingston and seven other New York cities:

Death rate per 1,000 population in Kingston and seven other New York cities:

The presence in Kingston of the Tuberculosis Hospital renders the statistical comparisons of mortality rates unfair and inconclusive.

The following table of statistics was given by the Statistical Department of the New York State Department of Health:

MORE BOXES FOR FIRST NATIONAL

Further Evidence That Kingston People Are Prudent as Well as Progressively Prosperous.

On February 1 the First National Bank of Rondout, at Broadway and Strand, completed its new safe deposit vault, and already the bank has found it necessary to order more boxes, as only a few remain.

This forcibly illustrates to what extent the people realize the safety and economy of safe deposit protection. When one stops to consider that at a cost of a cent a day it is possible to secure safety against fire and burglary for securities and other valuables, the demand for these boxes is not surprising.

The new boxes have been ordered from the York Safe & Lock Co., which installed the vault in the bank. This is the same concern that is installing the immense vaults in the magnificent new bank building of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Since the completion of the alterations, which have more than doubled its former floor space, the bank has been inspected by hundreds of its friends and patrons, whose congratulations have been extended to its officers and staff.

Formerly, the safe deposit boxes were in the general vault, with the bank's books and other private property. Now, however, all boxes are in the new vault, which is used exclusively for safe deposit boxes. This makes it possible for every renter to enter directly into the vault and take his box in his own hand. In this way, the box is always in the possession of the renter, who takes it from the vault to a private booth a few feet away.

The numerous private booths are meeting with universal approval. They are designed to provide every surety of privacy and safety. At this bank now it is not necessary to expose the contents of one's safe deposit box except in complete privacy.

While the perfectly appointed ladies' retiring and dressing rooms appeal to all women, they are especially convenient for those living out of town.

The bank is still welcoming many visitors and extends a cordial invitation to the public to continue its inspection of the improvements.

HIGH POINT LODGE TO OPEN DECORATION DAY.

Pewman's High Point Lodge, which overlooks the Ashokan Reservoir, opens for the season on Decoration Day, Wednesday, May 30. The "Tavern" has been greatly improved and there will be service at the first class restaurant and grill at all hours.

This popular resort is located on the most picturesque spot in the Catskill Mountains. Mr. Pewman will give special attention to catering to the wants of clubs, lodges and conventions of unlimited numbers with separate accommodations.

The Bernard Greater Shows, a wild animal exhibition, will show in this city during the week of May 21-26 under the auspices of the Loyal Order of Moose.

QUEEN CROWNED AT HIGH SCHOOL IN ANNUAL MAY DAY FESTIVITIES

Time Honored Ceremony at Which Letters Are Awarded to Athletes and Debaters Who Represent School on Various Teams—Winners in "Maroon" Contest Announced.

Springtime was welcomed by the students of the high school this morning when they held the annual May Day celebration. The weather man favored the ceremony with some welcome sunshine, and the out-door festivities proved very successful. The entire program was given on the green back of the school. The Queen's seat of honor was located on the side hill, and looked very pretty with its flowery decorations and background of rocks and green, sheltered by the pines.

A number of guests had gathered around the scene of the ceremony when Bugler Speigle sounded the note announcing the approach of the Queen and her train. Then came the procession, headed by two violinists, David Balzam and Solomon Roodney, playing Rubenstein's "Melody in F." They were followed by a group of Peasant dancers, dressed in the native costume of the countries they represented. The standard bearers, Kenneth Davis and Kenneth Lefevre, carried the banner of the Class of '23, and then came Prime Minister Donald MacFadden and the beautiful maiden chosen as Queen of the May, Miss Elsie Fuchse, garlanded in a dainty gown of white. Her youthful attendants were Anna Whitney, Anita Hoffman and John Cuff. Her high school attendants came next, dressed in delicately colored gowns that carried the spirit of the celebration with them, Marjorie Richards, Agatha Crispell, Charlotte Russell, Agatha Flick, Rose Cloppan, Gertrude Byrne, Catherine McCannons and Esther Whitley.

The chorus sang a spring song, and then Prime Minister MacFadden took the rostrum. He welcomed the guests, spoke a few words about the spirit of the ceremony, and then crowned Miss Fuchse as the class's choice for their queen. The Queen responded with a fitting speech on the happy celebration.

The next number was the awarding of the letters and roses to the athletes and other representatives of the school in the interscholastic contest. Besides the athletes and debaters, the Queen extended her congratulations to Solomon Roodney, who last week won for the school state honors at prize speaking. As each of the school's representatives received his letter, he was presented with a rose by the Queen, and in turn pledged his loyalty to her and the spirit of spring by following the age-old custom of kissing the fair maiden's hand. The athletes also received a certificate from the Athletic Association, stating the service rendered.

After the letters had been awarded, W. Farinacci Corregan, editor-in-chief of the Maroon, announced the prize winners in the different contests. Those winning first prize were awarded an appropriate book, and those winning second an order for a copy of the Maroon.

The prize winners were: Senior-Junior Short Story, first prize, Theodore Thielpape, for a story, "Black is White"; 2nd prize to Westbrook Stelle, for "The Monk of Ariste"; honorable mention to Margaret Elmendorf for "The Wardrobe."

Sophomore-Freshman Story Contest, first prize to Helen Strickland for "The Miracle"; second prize to Mary Boles, for "His Hardest Victory." Poem Contest, first prize to Lucy Harder for poem, "Night"; second prize to Ruth Clark for "Dusk, Dark, Dawn." Humorous Sketch Contest, first prize to Catherine McCannons, for "Suspense"; second prize to Beth Blankfeld for "Utopia High School." Essay Contest, first prize to Harold Markson for an article, "The Psalmist"; second prize to Ione Kinable for an article, "Dad"; honorable mention to Anna Gassool for "Crisis," Catherine McCannons for "Contentment," Margaret Elmendorf for "What Goodness Really is," and Erna Schmidt for "Maine." Solo dances were then given by Frances Kelleher, Virginia Herdman, Kathryn Byrne, Priscilla Davis, Ottilio Riccobono, Helen Cahlin, and Mabel Kirschnier. Then Junior Winnie gave a cute little "Bunny Dance," being dressed to represent the cottontail. A may pole dance and peasant dances concluded the program of one of the finest May Day celebrations that ever was held at Kingston High.

Following are the names of the athletes who were awarded their letters, a seven inch to variety football, basketball, track, baseball and debating, and a five inch to second teams and six inch to tennis:

SEVENTY-FOUR DEAD IN SOUTHERN COUNTRY SCHOOL HOUSE FIRE TRAP

Pupils and Their Parents and Friends Were Attending Commencement Exercises in Second-floor School Hall When Lamp Exploded—Tinderbox Became Roaring Furnace Before They Could Escape.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Camden, S. C., May 18.—Seventy-four persons, many of them school children, lost their lives last night in a ghastly, tragic fire which swept through a country school house six miles south of here.

They were burned, suffocated and trampled to death in a mad, terrified scramble for the one exit that led from the top floor of the flimsy wooden structure.

Perhaps a score of others are so badly burned they may die, and many who were successful in their frenzied dash for the stairway are suffering from injuries of varying degrees of seriousness.

The terrible tragedy occurred at what is known as the Cleveland school. Those who escaped today told the horrible details of a night of terror.

Between 150 and 200 people were gathered in the school house for graduation exercises. The school house is of the old fashioned country, wooden type, with a stairway in the rear and lighted only by kerosene lamps. It is located in a comparatively isolated community with no other house or buildings nearby.

The audience was made up of fathers, mothers and children, the latter dressed in the "Sunday best" for the biggest community event of the year.

About 10:30 p. m. after most of the exercises had been completed and the superintendent was presenting the ribbon-bound diplomas to the graduates of the eighth grade, there was a terrific explosion. It came from a smoky kerosene lamp, swinging in the rear of the hall from the ceiling.

Burning oil was scattered over the entire back part of the big square room and flames appeared instantaneously, catching readily at the dry wood. The only staircase was in the rear, and almost before those in the room realized what had happened, escape was virtually cut off. The flames immediately surrounded the staircase.

Those in the rear of the room dashed through the blinding smoke and jumped from the windows—it was only the second floor—to safety below. Those behind, nearest the platform and in the front seats of the hall, were not so fortunate. With no windows from the platform, and the smoke and confusion growing worse every second, there resulted a mad, terrified scramble for the one hope—the stairs.

It was sheer panic and it paid the usual price of panic. Women and children, gay in their white graduation costumes, were knocked down and trampled under foot and the interior of the hall became in a few minutes a screaming, milling mass of horror-stricken people, intent upon but one thing—escape.

Some of those who escaped said later that the doors of the auditorium "opened the wrong way," and that a score of persons got jammed against a closed door and thus held up escape for many people.

The superintendent of schools, on the stage with diplomas in his arms, made a futile attempt to stem the tide of panic. He shouted that all could get out safely if they took their time, but his voice was lost in the screams of the women and the children.

The flames spread through the dry, wooden building with almost unbelievable speed. Within a few moments after the explosion the whole rear portion was blazing as high, and the flames fanned by a stiff wind, began to eat into the floor.

Then the second floor collapsed, and down into that raging inferno of fire and burning embers went all who were left—established at about 70 persons.

The first of those who escaped by jumping out of the windows dashed across fields for the nearest farm house for telephones by which to summon aid. Practically the whole countryside was at the school house, however, and some houses were locked. Telephones are not many, anyway, in the community.

Camden finally was notified and chemical fire apparatus was sent on the run. When it arrived it was too late. The school house was a mass of burning embers, smoking and black—the funeral pyre of half this little community.

When the Camden firemen arrived they looked upon a scene that all-moment beggared description. The school house was a mass of ruins, around which stood weeping mothers, frantic fathers and waiting children, looking for their loved ones.

There were a score of persons lying groaning on the ground, suffering from broken limbs and fractures suffered in jumping from the windows.

The darkness was lighted only by the red glow of the smoldering ruins and the ruddy glow of the embers of Main St. and in the distance that end street and Clinton avenue and headed towards the town of Camden.

It was replaced on the spot who had escaped and who the track and continued its journey.

had died continued throughout the night.

Dawn this morning found a wearily, blackened crowd of men working feverishly still. At 8 o'clock they had succeeded in pulling 74 bodies from the ruins. The work of identification has not been completed because of the confusion and the stunned condition of those who escaped.

Several whole families, however, have been wiped out.

"There was no one to blame," said the chief of police here. "It all happened so quickly and the panic was natural."

All of the victims were either graduates, students of the little school, or parents and friends.

The Cleveland school house community is made up of small farmers and mill operatives and is similar to hundreds of other small communities throughout the south.

BOMB WRECKS U. S. CONSULATE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mexico City, May 18.—A bomb was exploded early today in an office occupied by a Mexican legal firm in the building containing the United States consulate. Part of the wall was torn away, furniture was smashed and windows shattered. No one was hurt.

John Barton Payne and Charles Beecher Warren, United States commissioners attending the "recognition conference" with two Mexican commissioners were notified of the explosion.

Warren said he felt sure that some disgruntled individual was responsible and that no organized plot existed.

It is possible that the bomb makers may have attempted to impede the work of the commissioners, but officials stated that the conference would continue as though nothing had happened.

One whole side of the consulate building was blown out. The explosion took place about 2:15 a. m. Investigation showed that the bomb in the room had been crudely constructed of black powder and was set off with a lighted fuse.

The explosion was heard for about a mile. The office wreck by the explosion was not occupied by the United States consular authorities but by a law firm of the name of Castillo. Furniture and book cases were wrecked and the windows were shattered. Consul General Dawson and his Mexican servants were sleeping on the third floor, where the consul resides.

The internal machine was made of iron with a threaded tap. There was a difference of opinion as to its contents. According to some it contained a stick of dynamite instead of powder.

Second Attempt in 10 Days.

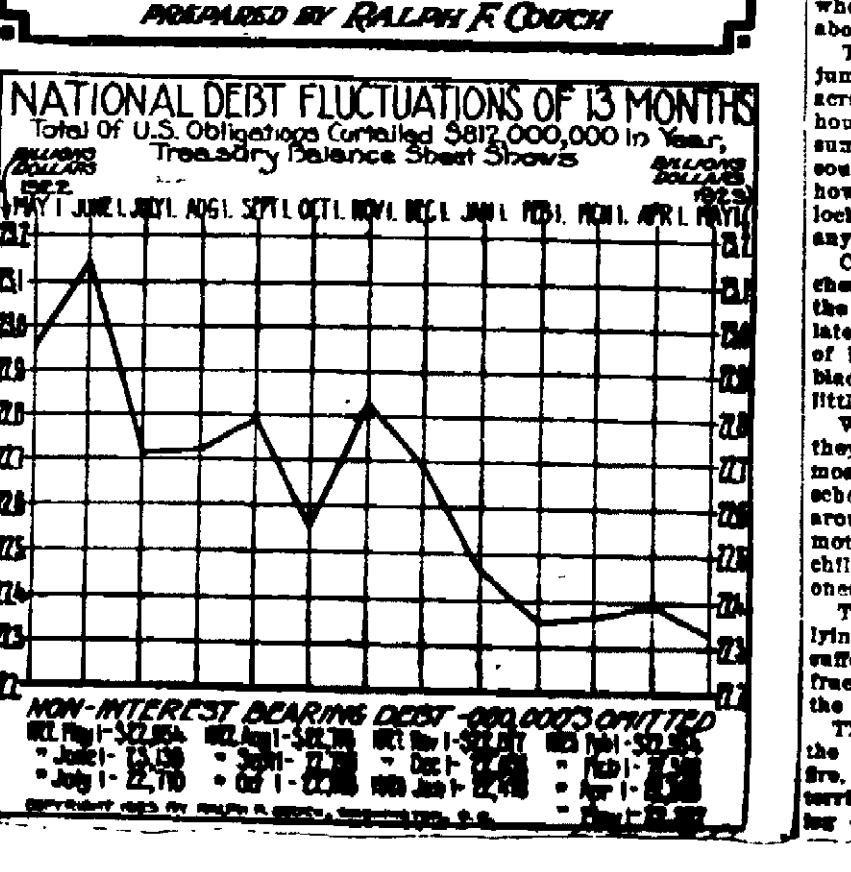

Washington, May 18.—The attempt made today to blow up the American consulate in Mexico City is the second within ten days. It was learned officially here today.

The previous attempt was made ten days ago when a bomb was thrown into the Garden of the consulate about 1 a. m. It did no damage to the building, and the police suppressed the news of it while an investigation has been in progress. An official report, however, was made to Washington, the International News Service learned today.

Ribbon Is Used to Trim Gowns

Gay Strands Adorn Latest Blouses, Waists, and Other Apparel.

Ribbon combines artistically with almost any kind of material. This season net with narrow ribbon trimming is popular in gowns. Especially attractive collars, cuffs and scarves are made of net with several rows of narrow ribbon of contrasting colors sewn around the edge. There are wonderful ribbons. One just wants to buy a lot of them and make them up into garters, bracelets, girdles, bandeaux, and so on. Solid collars and cuffs can be replaced by ribbon edged net and the gown brought up to the very latest thing in fashion.

Ribbons mark the flapper of today even as they did the flapper of many years ago when the term was applied to the adolescent girl because of her fancied resemblance to a young goose—neither fledgling nor grown-up—but dashing about with a good deal of noise, giggling and chatter.

Today, instead of adorning the hair of Miss Flapper, the ribbon adorns the sensible blouses and waists affected by her. She does not feel completely dressed unless she has a bow with streamers caught at the V of the waist.

What ribbon to use with what? This question comes up again and again in the minds of millions of women who wish to use ribbons to the very best advantage.

The question is difficult to answer. All ribbons seem to blend and combine well with all kinds of materials. The colors and widths are more important than the weave. Many prefer fine ribbon for heavy materials such as serge. Fine gives a decidedly smart tailored touch. Others prefer soft satins or moirés or fancy novelties for the serge or wool dress. When tied and properly placed it seems almost impossible to decide which is the most effective. The strictly tailored woman will most likely select the stiffer ribbon, but the woman who loves soft, clinging materials will find her choice in soft ribbons.

Ruffles and Straw for Frocks and Hats

For the well-dressed woman who loves variety without too great an expense, the use of embroidered voiles and organdies, as well as all-overs will prove satisfactory. This kerchief and hat for late spring and summer have been designed to show the effective use of embroideries.

Wear Ankle Corset to Re-Shape the Ankle

The low shoe is the enemy of the trim ankle. And these days the ankle has its share of attention when summing up a woman's charms, sheer hostery, embroidered patterns and lace insets call attention to it undoubtedly.

On every side women are saying, "How my ankles have spread since wearing low shoes several seasons." Now the remedy. The heroic wear a hard and fast binding of two-inch adhesive tape around the ankle; the less heroic wear the rubber stocking, footless, to be sure, but a mild support. And the determined woman goes in for the ankle corset. That's it, an ankle corset. About shoe-top length, made of corset material, lightly boned and laces right up the front, flesh colored and clips tightly over the heel to hold it in place.

Many women wear the ankle corset when hiking or golfing. Others put it on when they rise in the morning; a few wear it at night, laced tightly enough to reshape the ankle.

Spring Colors Are in the Delicate Shades

The spring colors are in general delicate, although many new rods appear. Reds include coral, shrimp, saffron, the brightest vermilion. Chinese lacquer red, crimson and briques tones. Blues are few—royal blue and cigarette smoke blue. Greens are delicate, apple green, almond green, verdigris. Yellows are greenish or grayish. Delicate mauves, lilacs and pinks are shown in frocks for young girls. Gold cloth is bright yellow and very shiny, often lined. Silver cloth is very white and shiny. It, too, frequently is lined. Gold, silver and steel cloth appear in rough crepe textures and duller tones for evening gowns, and are often lined with velvet and collared with fur.

Smart Spring Hats. Very smart and decidedly springlike are hats of black or dark blue straw trimmed with crimson yellow.

Has Only Imagination. The imagination is the only power I have that is creative. It is the only artist within me that is not a slave to its clay. My will power is weak, my memory is largely automatic, and my desire work right along without asking my permission.—Frank Crane.

Chronic Constipation
Relieved Without the Use of Laxatives

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowels to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication. Try it today.

Nujol
A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

The Morning Dress of Red and White Damask

The morning's dusting seems not half so arduous when one is frocked in the red and white damask morning dress shown here.

One-Piece Garment Is Much in Demand

There is an increasing demand for the one-piece garment among women who dislike bulkiness about the waistline. The one-piece garment has a semi-fitted bodice with gathered drawers attached just below the normal waistline. Gathers or plaits are placed over the hips so that the flat back and front effect is achieved.

The costume slip is as important as the frock itself this year. Often they are made with the batteau-shaped necklines and are worn in place of vests or blouses with the jacket suit and sports jackets. When used in place of the blouse, heavy crepes de chine or satin-backed crepes, in colors, navy, brown, lavender green, black or white, are popular. Bodices may be embroidered in colors or banded to resemble the dressy blouse. For sports wear the plaited or tucked fronts are popular.

With the sheer frock the slip is often six inches shorter than the frock itself, allowing a transparent showing of the ankle. For summer wear the costume slip has a shadow-proof hem extending to the hip line. White and flesh sateen slips will be worn with the washable dress.

A pretty underslip was worn at a recent fashion show under a frock of tan georgette. The bodice of the slip was of olive-green georgette and the skirt consisted of bands of pink, green, yellow and lavender georgette hem-stitched together and finely plaited. The rainbow effect subdued by the overgrown of tan was obtained.

Yellow and pink are the leading colors for summer nightgowns, many of which are made with batteau-shaped neck lines and long arm slits and with ribbon or string belts.

It is difficult to distinguish the nightgown from the negligee this year, as this garment takes on negligee lines. Even where the shoulder strap effect is used there is usually a detachable face berth which ties with ribbon in front.

Many of the latest sheer gowns have gone so far as to use long, full sleeves, which are gathered into narrow wrist bands. With the long sleeve arrangement the off-the-shoulder neckline is generally used.

Novelties Found in Bordered Materials

Bordered materials are strong, with many novelties being introduced, such as ten-inch borders of rows of buttonholes, deep borders of tiny pompons and borders that look like rows of embroidered arrowheads. All are woven into the fabric.

Crepe is still good, but crepe suits with a shimmering surface is stronger, white there are many printed silks. The designs of the new printed silks are unusual, adapted from old Egyptian, Chinese designs or Egyptian and Persian hieroglyphics.

Materials with embroidered and printed borders are overwhelmingly in the majority. In cotton and linen fabrics these designs reign supreme. There is much white patterned in color, often in strong blues, reds and greens. All-over embroidery frequently is used in cotton fabrics. A novelty in white linen shows a colored border exactly like the border of a blue linen towel.

Predict a Big Demand for Cotton Fabrics

Cotton dresses are making their appearance in larger numbers, and it is predicted that a big cotton season is forthcoming. The lines of sports dresses are also being enlarged for the later selling, a heavy demand for this type being anticipated by the wholesalers as soon as weather conditions about the country become more suitable to outdoor life and to spring and summer sports. The demand from year to year, whenever it comes, has increased for sports apparel in the spring and summer months, and there is every indication, they say, that this demand will be bigger than ever this season.

FREEMAN WANT ADS. BRING RESULTS

FLOUNCES OF 1880

Decorations Applied Anywhere Between the Waistline and the Hem.

Last autumn the American was heard on all sides: there is nothing new in the styles of women's clothes. This statement, however, was a fair criticism of the work of artists who are constantly laboring not only for the betterment of women's dress, but to give fresh impulses to all trades and industries pertaining thereto.

As far back as last summer clever designers advanced many new ideas which were to bring about striking changes in women's dress. The ideas at that time were kept secret but as time went on they took root and their fruits are now seen everywhere. Distinct and definite fashion notes are apparent in fabrics, in designs for dresses, suits and in millinery. The 1880 silhouette was brought forward last autumn, but not stressed. Now the flounces of 1880 are having a re-incarnation in this season's dresses. Skirts of 1880 may be flounced anywhere between the waistline and the hem. Flounces appear in unexpected places, such as on the front of the skirt only, directly over the hips at either side. Skirts may be flounced all around in straight lines, or wide frills may slant low on one hip and high on the other.

Every dressmaker now has his or her own version of the ruffle. A white crepe de chine frock has flounces in front which begin midway between the hips and the knees. Narrow lace and tucks trim the pockets, the collar and the cuffs of this frock.

Three silhouettes in evening gowns so far are sanctioned. The 1880 silhouette, with bustle or bustle effect of big crisp sash bows. The skirt is up-draped at the back of the bustle, which is sometimes held out by wire framework. The Venetian or 1880 silhouette of hourglass shape, which has various interpretations, may be delightfully modern. The slender silhouette, which is the most general, and is varied ad infinitum.

Deauville Kerchief Has a Ribbon Rival

The Deauville kerchief has a ribbon rival which serves all the purposes of the handkerchief, and has some special features all its own.

The ribbon scarf is made of four pieces of wide ribbon which are mitered at the corners by double hemstitching or fagotting. The opening formed by the four pieces is large enough to go over the head. It can be worn as a square, can be pulled around so that one point comes down in the front, with both shoulders and the back adorned with the other points. The shoulder points can be knotted, or only one point tied. The clever-fingered woman can make six or eight different adjustments of the ribbon bertha.

When worn square across the front the side pieces can be folded over the front piece which goes across the chest in such a way as to form a vestee and collar. This is a special feature that the handkerchief cannot boast unless it is cut out in the center.

Flowers of Leather for Dress Trimming

Flower ornaments made of metal-plated leather in single motifs or in wreaths are used on the new spring dresses for street and afternoon wear. These so well as frills are made of colored leathers which are hand-colored and gilded. The wreaths frequently serve as borders. Other leather ornaments are adorned with steel and gold. Colored leather gloves studded with jet and steel nailheads are worn in dressy circles, the gloves sometimes contributing to form an ornament to the dress.

Now a Summer. Summer clothes for the latter part of the season, says the fashion. It is a day's journey ahead, but it is a day's journey ahead, and will go on from there in the heavenly way with ease.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 18, 1928.

LET US HAVE THE TRUTH.

The startling and unpleasant statements made in the "Promotive" Survey of Kingston in regard to the condition of public school buildings should be given immediate and adequate attention. Charges that three public school buildings are unfit for use and that five others are fire traps demand immediate investigation by unbiased and thoroughly competent experts.

A denial by the Board of Education, either general or specific, will not do and will be no better evidence than is the opinion of the person who made the survey. There are, doubtless, experts in the employ of the state departments of education and public health who are competent to make a real survey of the buildings in question, with little or no cost to the city, and their services should be obtained without delay.

Without such competent examination and opinion, argument for or against the findings of the survey for which the Chamber of Commerce paid $2,000 is futile. It is the plain duty of the Board of Education to act at once.

CHARITY NOT MEANT.

The Federal Sugar Refining Company makes the suggestion that everyone packing or selling sugar label his bags: "Tariff on Sugar: With free raw sugar this sugar would cost you about 2 cents per lb. less." The Federal thinks that will persuade the people to get busy and storm Congress for free trade in sugar. This sounds very much like some of the bunk which was circulated throughout the country by one Frank C. Lowry, some years ago. Lowry was then, and probably is now, employed by the Federal Company to bring about free trade in sugar, and he almost buried the U. S. Capitol with little yellow petitions, purporting to be signed by housewives throughout the land and demanding all duty be removed from sugar.

Of course the Federal has a reason for all this. It buys the raw sugar from Cuba and refines it here, putting its finished sugar on the market in competition with the best output of the west and the Louisiana cane product. If the Federal could wreck the American sugar producers by getting rid of the duty on imported sugar, it could stick that duty in its own pocket. It would be an addition to its refining margin.

But free sugar would not mean cheaper sugar, for with the duty of only one cent on Cuban sugar we found sugar selling for from 17 to 25 cents a pound long after the armistice. Free sugar would eventually result in the gift of an air-tight monopoly to the seaboard refiners and the Cuban growers, for they would immediately begin a price-wrecking campaign against the domestic producers, and when they had succeeded they would boost sugar to the skies, make up anything they had lost by their under-selling, and keep the price up in the clouds. That is what they are after. It is not charity or regard for the feelings of the housewife. They are out for the long green and if they can talk the American people into pulling their chestnuts from the fire we will have only ourselves to blame.

Canal receipts are steadily approaching the income from the Suez Canal, but it will be a long time, if ever, before the Panama waterway shows a profit on the investment. The cost of operation is already paid by the tolls, but there is little left to apply as interest or amortization of the cost of construction. Nevertheless, the digging of the canal was a sound business undertaking. Indirectly it has contributed many millions of dollars to the American people in the shape of lower freight rates, and has added a strength to our national defense system that might be worth millions if the United States were threatened with invasion.

While he was with us Mr. Clemenceau made rather a pathetic complaint that American sympathy for France was waning. He urged his audience to believe in France. Now comes the French statement that payment of the debt to the United States must depend upon receipts from German reparations. How can American taxpayers have a friendly feeling for a country that disposes of its obligations in such a nonchalant fashion? Repudiated debts do not induce international respect.

It is said that league advocates are trying to induce Lloyd George, Cardinal Mercier, and General Smuts to tour the United States in the interest of "the cause." The pro-leaguers entertain a strange belief when they think that advice from foreigners is likely to have more weight with our people than the views of distinguished Americans. Every one of the scores of alien propagandists who has invaded our shores has been received with more courtesy than the purpose of his visit warranted, but his arguments have had no visible effect on the public mind. The three gentlemen named are no more prominent in recent history than Clemenceau, Lord Robert Cecil, Lady Astor and others who have come over, delivered their message, and returned. They can add nothing to what has been said, and their attempt to convert Americans will be a futile gesture.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Why do cypress trees have those big extra roots called knees?
2. Can you tell me how to eradicate woodchucks? An old stone wall, not ours, harbors them every year and they destroy our garden.
3. What birds feed at night?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Is there any rule on the pattern of garter snakes?

The striped snakes, of which garter snakes are a very large division, vary too much in pattern and color for any rule to hold good of all. The general plan for most of them, however, is 3 yellowish stripes on a dark background. Background may be brown, ash, black or green. In New Mexico and Mexico spotted garter snakes are found and in Arizona one called the red-spotted garter snake.

2. What do butterflies live on and how long do they live?

They feed largely on nectar from flowers, which they suck by means of a long tube-like tongue. This is coiled like a watch spring when not in use. Some sweet sap of trees is taken when not at a flower; and many butterflies take a good deal of water, drinking from puddles. May live only a few days, dying as soon as eggs are laid; or some live through the winter, hibernating in cracks.

3. Does the condition of the soil affect bird life at all?

Yes, though indirectly. Certain soils support certain vegetation and this vegetation may or may not offer nesting places and food. The food may be actual fruit of the vegetation or insects that infest it. Thus in this sort of house-that-jack-built sequence, some soils will provide ultimately food and lodging for one sort of bird, and offer nothing attractive to different species of birds. Tilled soil with good crops on it is rich in seed and insect food for birds.

Never Wined.

The strict rules about bathing costumes that were adopted by the Virginia Baptists during their camp meeting at Virginia Beach led Judge Calhoun to say at a dinner in Norfolk:

"The Virginia Baptists acted very wisely. Some of the sights we used to see at Virginia Beach were truly shocking. They remind me of a story."

"A young wife called from her Virginia Beach bathroom:

"Oh, Jack, I can't find my bathing suit anywhere. What on earth shall I do?"

"Look again, dear," Jack called back. "Maybe you've got it on."

Came for Doubt.

There was an all-around good-for-nothing man who died, and at his funeral the minister delivered a most beautiful sermon, eulogizing the departed in the most glowing manner, praising his splendid qualities as a fine type of man, a good husband and kind parent.

About this time the widow, who was seated well up in front, spoke to her 5th daughter by her side, and said, "My dear, go look in the coffin and see if it is your father."—The Universalist, London, Boston.

Old Timber for Violins.

Valuable violins are being manufactured from wood taken from the ruins of the civil dwellings near Astor, N. Y. While excavating, Carl Morris, research investigator for the Smithsonian Institution, found a number of perfectly preserved timbers which are believed to have been used in constructing the houses of the civil dwellers. The timbers were estimated to be over one thousand years old and, due to the dry, hot climate that prevails in the vicinity of the ruins, the wood has become so well seasoned that high-class violins are being made from it which have a tone, it is said, equal to that of an instrument that has been in use for a number of years. The instruments are all of fine quality, and are bringing high prices.

GROSS WANTED HALF OF FORFEIT

Real Estate Broker Sued for Half of Money Forfeited by Would-Be Purchaser of West Shore Hotel.

The action brought by Nathaniel S. Gross, real estate dealer, against Joseph S. Pessenar, was continued Thursday afternoon in Supreme court.

Mr. Gross sued to recover commission on the sale of the West Shore Hotel on Railroad avenue which Mr. Pessenar owned. According to plaintiff's contention, the hotel was listed with him for sale and he secured a buyer. A contract was drawn up and signed and $1,000 was paid on the purchase price. The deal fell through but Mr. Gross holds that under his agreement with Mr. Pessenar he is entitled to $500 commission. He claims that it had been agreed that upon the closing of the contract and the payment of the $1,000 deposit he was to be paid $500 or one-half of his commission, the rest of the money to be paid when title was given. The contract was signed and the $1,000 paid to Mr. Pessenar and Gross sued to recover $500.

Defendant claimed that there was no such agreement. He claimed he listed the property for sale with Mr. Gross late in 1922 and that at that time he placed a valuation of $45,000 upon it. Gross brought a purchaser to him and an offer was made to buy for $35,000. This purchaser wanted to purchase but wanted to give paper in payment according to Mr. Pessenar. Later, Mr. Gross brought another purchaser who offered $30,000 and after consideration Mr. Pessenar said he agreed to sell for that provided the deal went through immediately. He claims that he told Mr. Gross that he would pay him $1,000 when the sale was completed and title passed. When the price was reduced to $30,000, Mr. Gross, according to Mr. Pessenar, asked if his commission would still be $1,000 and Mr. Pessenar testified that he told Gross that would be his commission when the deal went through. The contract was drawn up and signed but the purchaser after paying $1,000 deposit failed to take the property.

A few days after the drawing of the contract, Mr. Pessenar testified, Mr. Gross came back from New York one evening and told him that he had been talking with the New York parties and they had backed out on the deal. According to defendant, Mr. Gross said that $1,000 had been paid and asked Mr. Pessenar to "split the pot." This Mr. Pessenar refused to do, claiming that he promised to pay nothing until the deal was completed.

Henry Klein appeared for plaintiff and Frederick C. Traver and Cleon B. Murray for defendant.

The case went to the jury this morning.

HUMAN SACRIFICES IN ASSAM

Attempt by Government to Abolish a Custom, Evil Has Met With Much Opposition.

The report on the efforts made by the government to suppress slavery and human sacrifice in the Naga hills shows, according to Mr. Clayton, who was recently commissioner on the northeastern frontier of Burma, that last year there were 271 slaves in Khamptu, as compared with 378 in the previous year. The reduction was mainly due to release of slaves, writes Henri Richard in the Cincinnati Enquirer. Several cases have been reported of Indians being enticed by Nagas to work as blacksmiths, and being seized and sold into slavery in the Hukong valley, but only seven Indian slaves were found, of whom three were released, the others being constant with their lot. An Indian man and a girl set apart for sacrifice by the Nagas were released.

The investigations showed that human sacrifice was much more common in the Naga hills than was supposed, there being no fewer than six boys and ten girls annually, and in plentiful years twenty boys and thirty girls kidnapped from Assam. These were the commonest victims. The report states that an attempt to rescue slaves from sacrifice creates a vicious circle, in which a fantastic price is charged for a victim hoarded for a bigger and more expensive sacrifice. The report comes to the conclusion that the only solution appears to be direct government administration of the tracts where these hideous practices prevail.

ANYTHING BETTER THAN HIKE

Fat Youth Would Welcome Pneumonia, If Only It Could Be Served With Promptness.

Harold MacGrath (novelist) tells this story in the New York Herald: "One dark, chill April morning, some years ago, Billy Muldoon announced that we should go hiking instead of riding. This would mean eight or ten miles of heel-and-toe work. Among those present were Kid McCoy, Charles B. Dillingham and myself. There arrived the night before a fat young chap, who weighed 280 pounds. He went along all right for a mile, but as we took a long, muddy hill he began to puff. When we reached the top he sat down on a big cold boulder and began to wipe the sweat from his face.

"Hey, you big fat slob!" yelled the professor. "What the blankety-blank do you mean by sitting down on that wet stone when you're all a-sweat? Do you want pneumonia?" "Said the victim promptly: 'Yes, and I want it right now!'"

Fish Meal.

Experiments with fish meal as a food for domestic animals have been made abroad, and it has been found that pigs and cattle eat it with relish. In Norway the meal is made from cod and herring. The codfish are dried first in the air and then in an oven, and afterward ground into meal. They make a highly nutritious food. Herring are boiled and placed under pressure before being ground. In England and Scotland fish meal is made from the waste parts of all kinds of fish, first steamed and then dried and ground. This meal usually contains from 55 to 65 per cent of albuminoids, 3 to 6 per cent of fats and 14 to 18 per cent of calcium phosphate.

Searching Ocean's Depths.

The latest invention in nautical devices now in use on a pilot boat is a machine which throws a beam of light to the sea bottom allowing the depth of the water below the ship to be gauged. Soundings may thus be done away with. The invention may be usefully employed by the big liners in entering shallow water. The searchlight is worked through a hole in the lower part of the ship, while an observation window is placed nearby through which the beam of light may be seen. A mirror is set at the end of a long observation tube running vertically through the ship to the bridge.

Novel Motor Canoe.

It is reported that a western man has built a most unusual water craft. In the form of a motor canoe. He took an ordinary canoe and placed in the bow a detachable motorboat arrangement which pulls the canoe forward when the motor is operating reversely. At the stern of the canoe he rigged up an airplane propeller, which is driven by a separate engine. In order to insure safety, pontoons were fastened on either side of the craft, and the steering gear of both motors was placed within easy reach near the center of the canoe.

Helmet Worn by Magellan.

A brass helmet worn by Magellan, in 1521, when he was killed in the Philippines while making the first round-the-world voyage, has been discovered by Major H. D. Selton, United States army, according to advices received by the copper and brass research association.

The helmet, dented from blows received in battle, but in good condition, was purchased from a Moro chieftain, by the officer, who ascertained its history through tribal traditions.

Our Big $25,000 Sale of Pianos and Player-Pianos Begins Tomorrow—Saturday Morning, 8 O'Clock

TO THE PUBLIC:—At the stroke of 8:00 a. m. tomorrow Mr. A. E. Thomas will commence one of the most sensational and gigantic sales of pianos, player pianos ever held in this or any other city of its size in the state of New York.

SEVERAL CARLOADS of high grade instruments that were purchased in January from some large manufacturers who were greatly in need of cash, will be placed on sale here. These goods were purchased by us at a great saving, and we are compelled either to dispose of the stock at very reduced figures, or pay storage. We have decided to place this entire stock on sale, and also include our regular stock. The stock consists of some of the finest musical merchandise that money can buy; same goods that we have sold regularly for years such as Lester, Leonard & Co., Hardman, Mathushek, Schaff Bros., Gulbransen, Roth Bros., Kohler & Campbell, and many other makes equally as reputable, some new, some used, some not worn, but all in first-class condition. You have the unrestricted, unlimited guarantee of the manufacturers as well as that of Mr. Thomas on any instrument purchased during this sale.

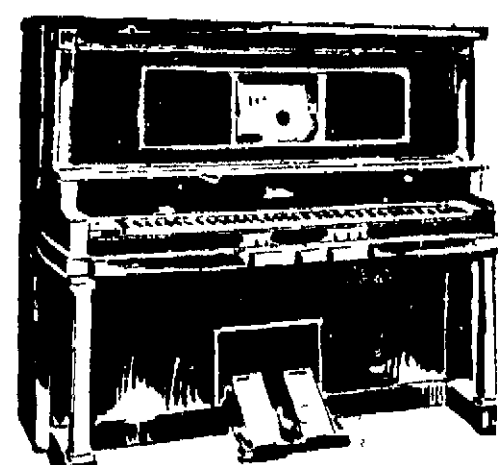

If you have an old piano or organ in your home, one that you seldom use, we will allow you full market value should you decide to trade it in on a new instrument. If you purchase a used piano or player during this sale, we will agree to take it in trade any time within two years and allow you just what you paid us. The bargains are real, the saving is genuine. Pay cash if you can and you will be handsomely rewarded, but irrespective of whether you pay cash or buy on time, we are determined to move this vast stock of high grade musical merchandise. No reasonable offer will be refused on any instrument in this store during the next ten days. You must act now. Our big sale opens tomorrow morning. Nothing will be held back. No instruments will be reserved, for anybody. No telephone orders taken. If you are interested in the purchase of a high grade piano or player, come here tomorrow and come prepared to make a purchase.

We will remain open evenings till 9 p. m. Car fare will be paid to out of town buyers. A few dollars down will send a piano or player to your home. You can pay the balance weekly or monthly. The big sale is on. Will you be here?

'CALLS' ON SICK VIA WIRELESS

Ship's Surgeon Treats Emergency Cases by Radio.

ADVICE SAVES MANY LIVES

Among his associates on shipboard, and for that matter among his landmen friends, he is known as Wireless Doc Irwin.

Professionally he is Dr. William S. Irwin, ship's surgeon of the United States Lines steamship President Harding, and it has fallen to his lot during his twenty years' service as a ship's surgeon to diagnose and treat by wireless myriad cases of sickness and emergency operations.

Recently he gave emergency treatment to a seaman who had been stricken blind on a freighter and to another who had fallen down a hatch and sustained concussion of the brain and internal injuries. At the time, the President Harding was 200 or more miles from the vessels asking for medical advice. Later both men were taken on board the President Harding in mid-ocean for direct treatment.

On March 24 the wireless operator picked up a call from the freighter Narcissus stating that Joseph Larue, a seaman, had been suddenly and mysteriously stricken blind. Both vessels were then 1,000 miles from port and 24 hours distant from each other.

Questions Through Air. With infinite patience Doctor Irwin sat in the wireless room and talked with the officers of the Narcissus. There was questioning and cross-questioning flashed through the air.

Doctor Irwin diagnosed Larue's case as one of toxic amblyopia, necessitating immediate medical treatment in order to save the sight. The vessel's courses were headed for each other and in a few hours Larue was taken to the Narcissus in a small boat and transferred to the President Harding, where he was under the immediate supervision of Doctor Irwin. Larue is the son of a Texas banker who had shipped as a seaman for the benefit of his health. He is a graduate of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical university.

Larue completely recovered his sight under the care of Doctor Irwin and appealed to Captain Grening of the President Harding to permit him to sign on as a member of the crew. He is now a member.

In many cases of appeals from freighters which have had no doctors on board, Doctor Irwin has been particularly successful. All his "wireless" patients have recovered. He has a peculiar faculty of getting from the lay mind over the wireless the exact symptoms.

Most Remarkable Experience.

Perhaps his most remarkable experience in that line was a "wireless operation" while he was serving on a liner in the South American service. Passing through the Caribbean sea a wireless reached the doctor that a keeper of a lighthouse on Swan Island, off the coast of Honduras, needed surgical aid. On the island, far from the mainland, was the keeper, his wife, a wireless operator and two workmen. The message stated that the keeper had developed gangrene in his leg. Doctor Irwin's vessel was nearly 1,000 miles distant. Symptoms showed an immediate operation was necessary to save the life of the keeper of the light. Part of the gangrenous leg would have to be amputated. Here was a big job to be tackled by unskilled hands.

As it meant death within a short time anyway unless attempted, Doctor Irwin wirelessed them in detail how to cut off the gangrenous portion of the leg. With the wireless operator at the key every minute, Doctor Irwin told the lay surgeons how to sterilize the knives, how to cut, how to tie arteries and how to sew the flesh over the stump. Only a local anesthetic was given.

Doctor Irwin had his vessel slowed down for a while so he could keep in wireless touch with his patient. After two days, word was received that the keeper was responding to treatment and no infection had resulted. He eventually recovered.

TUB POISONING KILLS BABY

Inflammation Caused by Zinc Corrosion Proves Fatal.

Francis Edward Carney, three weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carney of Tuckahoe, N. Y., died as a result of an inflammation of the skin received in a bathbath.

According to Dr. Joan F. Weston who attended the child, Mrs. Carney bathed the baby in a galvanized tub which had been used to wash clothes.

Some substance employed in the washing process had corroded the zinc with a poison that caused the child's whole body to become inflamed, he said.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Pretty Model for Mother's Girl. 4318. Here is a smart little frock with drop shoulder lines and panel front and back. The sleeve may be in wrist or elbow length. The dress may be finished in French style with low waistline. Checked gingham with white piping is here portrayed. Cretonne or percale will also be attractive.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. An 8 year size requires 3 1/4 yards of 27 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout.

THE OPPORTUNITY—The use of braided thread instead of twisted thread in the manufacture of certain articles of commerce and particularly in the shoe industry is a development of recent years, and the superiority of braided thread has created a demand that has outgrown the supply. The manufacture of braided thread has hitherto been practically monopolized by interests which control, through patent ownership, the only commercially successful high speed braiding machines, heretofore available. The field is therefore open with a waiting market already established for large additional production at profitable prices.

THE BUSINESS—The Braided Thread Corporation was organized to take advantage of the conditions outlined above. The corporation had its inception in the fact that very recently newly invented machinery has become available by which braided thread can be produced more cheaply and of better quality than in the past and by which finer sizes can be made than have been possible by the older methods. These improvements have been patented in the United States, Canada and Great Britain and patents are pending in several other foreign countries and the Corporation has acquired absolute rights under all these patents for the manufacture of Braided Sewing Thread.

THE CORPORATION—The plans of the Corporation have so far progressed that the organization has been completed; negotiations are under way for a factory property in a Hudson Valley city; one thousand braiding machines have been ordered, delivery of which are expected to begin in June and be completed in December this year. The entire output of the factory for the first year is virtually sold and the entire cost of organization and carrying its plans up the present time has been met. The Corporation has no debts and has money in the treasury for current needs. Production of Braided Thread in commercial volume is expected to begin in July this year. FINANCING—The Corporation needs additional capital with which to complete the purchase of factory and equipment, buy raw material and to provide sufficient working capital, they have therefore, authorized the sale of a part of their preferred stock.

(The above statements are based on information furnished by the Braided Thread Corporation and are believed to accurately represent the facts, we do not, however, guarantee them.)

OLD MAN WEATHER

Old Man Weather was much amused. He was around, of course. He always is around. He has such a lot of business to attend to at all times.

He saw a little dog running along a street, getting out of the way of people, going to play with some other dogs who lived further down the street.

The little dog knew just where he was going, oh yes, he didn't need to be told. He knew just as though he were a boy going off to play with some of his companions. No one need tell him the way. He knew.

Old Man Weather watched him and as he watched him Old Man Weather almost forgot about his business for the moment. Although he has such a lot of business to attend to still he does rest a bit at times.

It is then that people find Old Man Weather so undecided about what he is going to do next.

Well, after the little dog had gone on, Old Man Weather began to think of his business affairs and it was then that he was so amused.

Of course he knew that there were big weather bureaus where they studied the Wind and the Clouds and the Sun and the condition of the Atmosphere or Air and all of Old Man Weather's friends and assistants. But he was amused by what he heard.

He hadn't had a chance to speak to the Wind who is the Treasurer in Old Man Weather's business concerns.

Nor had he had a chance to speak to the Cloud Secretaries, nor to Vice President Sun nor to First Assistant Atmosphere.

He had not had a chance to talk to any of them for he had been having one of his birthday parties.

You see, Old Man Weather does not know how old he is. He has really no idea of his age. Only he knows that he is very, very old.

And neither has he any idea when his birthday comes. He never had the same childhood as he had seen others have.

Yes, he had seen others who had had a great fuss made over their birthdays when they were young and so they had kept on celebrating their birthdays right through life.

Old Man Weather couldn't do that because he had not begun right. He could not say that any one day in the year was his birthday. And so he had a birthday whenever he felt like it.

He had just been having one of his birthday parties. And to his birthday party had come many of his business friends and his other friends as well, for Old Man Weather has so many friends, even if some do grumble about him and say unkind things about him.

It had been very puzzling to every one who wanted to find out about the weather for so many kinds seemed to be possible. It was all because of the birthday party.

And if ever you hear that the weather is to be very uncertain and that no one is quite sure what it is going to be like even though they have studied everything about it—then you may know that Old Man Weather is having a birthday party.

And, as I have said it was following this party that Old Man Weather was so much amused. He heard a little girl asking her little brother this question "Is it going to rain tomorrow?"

The little brother said that he thought it might and again he thought it might not, which was not a very helpful answer.

Then the little girl asked her daddy, "Is it going to rain tomorrow?"

Her daddy had answered, "I don't know dear. I did not get a newspaper this evening so I can't tell."

Well, that was what amused Old Man Weather. Not but what the papers were pretty apt to be correct about him studying him and his friends as they did, but even the papers could make a weather mistake because they were never quite sure when Old Man Weather might change everything about. They didn't even know that he gave birthday parties.

He had always kept that a secret from them.

Oh, Old Man Weather was so much amused to think that people would find out what the weather was going to be like and that he would fool them once in awhile because of his secret birthday parties!

THINGS GOOD TO EAT

This is the season of the year when we may revel in the sweets from the maple trees. Fortunately indeed are they who may have this delicious sirup from their own sugar trees, as the price on the market is largely prohibitive to the ordinary pocketbook.

But sirup boiled and poured over a pan of snow or ice until a wax is formed is one of the most delicious sweets for the children.

Baking powder biscuit dough rolled out into rectangular form, spread with butter, then with scraped maple sugar, rolled up, cut into half-inch slices and baked, is another happy way to serve the maple flavor.

Plain ice cream served with nuts and maple sauce is an ice which leaves nothing to be desired.

Ripe Olive Salad.—Take one package of cream cheese, break with a fork and mix with two tablespoonfuls of orange juice; when soft enough to mold add ten ripe olives cut very fine and mold the mixture into small balls, roll these in minced parsley and arrange on lettuce. Serve with French dressing.

Orange Cookies.—Cream one half cupful of butter, add one cupful of sugar and the grated rind of an orange, one well beaten egg; alternate one half cupful of orange juice with the same and one half cupful of flour sifted with four teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Set on ice to chill. Roll and cut, sprinkle each cookie with granulated sugar and bake in a quick oven. Be sure that the orange juice is strained as the pulp when baked is apt to be bitter.

French String Beans.—Use either fresh or canned beans. Melt one tablespoonful of sweet lard and add one half of a clove of garlic, cut in wafer like slices. Cook for five minutes, remove from the fat, add a tablespoonful of finely minced parsley; turn the beans into the fat, mixing all together. Serve very hot.

Porto Rican History.

In the vicinity of Mayaguez, Porto Rico, are several historically interesting places. The little village of Rio Guanabara, near Anasco, was the scene of the unique experiment by which the Indians in 1511 endeavored to discover whether the Spaniards were immortal.

After holding a Spanish nobleman under water six hours they were assured that those intruders were just as subject to death as themselves. About seven miles from Mayaguez, across a rough mountainous country, is the famous sanctuary of Montserrat, which is visited every year by many pilgrims.

Situated conspicuously among its wild surroundings, its large stone church is visible for many miles. From the mountain top we obtained a delightful view of the beautiful plain through which flow the Bagoas and Guanabara rivers.—Brooklyn Eagle.

SPARKS CIRCUS HERE SATURDAY

Coming Early From Newburgh and Will Parade Before the Show on the Kingston Fair Grounds.

Before daybreak tomorrow morning the Sparks circus train will arrive in Kingston and the inhabitants of "Boyville" will undoubtedly be on hand bright and early to greet the big tented organization. The coming of the circus is always an event of paramount interest to the kiddies and older generations usually pause in the race for success in finance and commerce when the circus bands begin to play.

The management of the Sparks circus announces a most elaborate and diversified program for this season with many newly imported features exhibited for the first time in America. Notable among these are the fine display of trained wild beasts and the European trained horse show.

The street parade with its beautiful women, herds of elephants, hundreds of thoroughbred horses and countless other attractions will leave the circus grounds at 10:30 a. m. irrespective of weather. Many open dens of wild animals will be shown and music will be furnished by three bands and two calliopes.

Many real novelties and surprises are promised in the elaborate performances which will commence at 2 and 8 p. m. The doors will be opened one hour earlier to allow the public ample time to visit the comprehensive menagerie. For the convenience of the public reserved seats and admission tickets may be secured at Elting's drug store tomorrow at the same price as charged at the show grounds.

The program for the day, including the line of march of the parade, is as follows:

6:00 a. m.—Sparks circus trains due to arrive from Newburgh on the West Shore railroad.

6:30 a. m.—Unloading and removal of tents, paraphernalia, wagons, animals, etc., to the circus grounds.

7:30 a. m.—Erecting kitchen, dining, dressing, menagerie, blacksmith and horse tents.

8:00 a. m.—Breakfast served to the 700 circus employees.

8:30 a. m.—Hoisting of mammoth white top in which main performance takes place, a lesson in practical efficiency. Side show erected.

10:30 a. m.—The elaborate street parade will leave the Fair Grounds and proceed along North Front street to Wall, Wall to Main, Main to Clinton avenue, Clinton avenue to Albany avenue, Albany avenue to Broadway, Broadway to Delaware avenue, and countermarch on Broadway to Albany avenue, Albany avenue to Clinton avenue, to North Front street, returning to the show grounds.

1:00 p. m.—Doors open for leisurely inspection of menagerie. Band concert 1 to 2.

2:00 p. m.—Afternoon performance commences.

6:00 p. m.—Concert of popular and classical music played on the world's largest steam piano.

7:00 p. m.—Doors again opened to public. Menagerie. Band concert 7 to 8.

8:00 p. m.—Evening performance of the circus, complete in detail.

11:00 p. m.—Concerted night movement to circus trains.

12:00 p. m.—Departure of circus trains for Troy.

SCRAP FORTUNE IN CASH EVERY DAY IN WASHINGTON

Treasury Department Officials Mutilate Old Greenbacks and Turn Them Into Pulp.

Nearly every week day there leaves the Treasury department under heavy guard a wagonload of greenbacks, ranging in denomination from $1 to $100, to be destroyed. The money is taken to the bureau of printing and engraving, where it is mutilated and then pulped.

Most of the money thus destroyed is greasy and grimy from age and rough handling. All of it has reached the stage where it must be withdrawn from circulation. On rush days the load that leaves the treasury to be destroyed weighs as much as 10,000 pounds.

The money to be destroyed is generally picked out by treasury employees as they count it. The bills are gathered and placed in bundles of 100 and mutilated. First four big holes are punched in every bill and then they are cut in half.

"All of the work is done with the greatest care," said a treasury official. All identity of the various bills is completely destroyed. When the work of mutilating the bills is completed there is not the slightest recognizable thing about them.

"The pulp to which the bills are transformed has value. It is used for making cardboard. A consignment of pulp sold was worth about $8. In its original form as currency it was worth $2,500,000.

"What a tale this mutilated pulp could tell were it able to speak. Some of it has sped quickly from one spendthrift's hands to another's, gayly, carelessly, without a thought of tomorrow; some of it has known the depth of the savings sock; some of it has moldered through the years spent underground."

HERE'S THE MAN WHO SENDS US CONGRESSIONAL SEEDS

O. F. Jones of Washington, D. C., who for twenty-two years has been in charge of the congressional seed distribution section of the Department of Agriculture. Every year he sends out to the members of congress over 60,000,000 packages of seed which they in turn distribute to the farmers. Last year congress did not pass a budget to keep this practice up because of some flaw in the bill, but it is hoped that the new congress will take up the measure and put it in operation again. Seeds have been distributed to the farmers by congress for the last sixty-three years.

This photo shows O. F. Jones at his phone at the capitol where he gets all the orders for seed from the congressmen.

FREED BY PERPETUAL MOTION

Prisoner Puts Theory to Test in Flight and Is Still Going.

Jefferson City, Mo.—Riley Davis, an inmate of Missouri state penitentiary, was an inventor of perpetual motion machines. Davis was so ardent in his belief of perpetual motion that he persuaded penitentiary officials to allow him to go to Columbia, accompanied by another prisoner and two guards, to have a university specialist examine his invention.

Perpetual motion worked well for Davis and his companions, for they continued on 100 miles beyond Columbia. Davis escaped by leaping from a motor car, and, according to latest reports, is still in perpetual motion. His companion was held by the guards.

FAT WALLET IGNORED

Lays Unnoticed an Hour on Crowded Boston Sidewalk.

For nearly an hour a wallet containing $230 lay unnoticed at the corner of Tremont and Winter streets, in Boston. Thousands of pedestrians passed during the afternoon rush, but no one noticed or picked up the wallet.

John Brown, who came to the city to do some shopping and who lost the wallet, upon discovering his loss hurried through the crowd for ten or fifteen blocks and found his wallet where he had dropped it.

Takes Pride in His Tonic.

We ran across a rather amusing thing in a local shoe shine "parlor" the other day. A really peaceful-looking negro breezed into the place, pulled a blackjack from his back pocket and asked to have it shined. Fact!—Columbus Dispatch.

SAWKILL.

Sawkill, May 17.—John Neenan, Mr. and Mrs. R. Smedes and daughter, Evelyn and D. Rafferty, all of Gilboa, spent the week end with Mr. Neenan's family at his home in this place.

A baby girl, Ellen, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Callahan on Wednesday evening, May 9. The baby will be baptized on Sunday, May 20, at St. Ann's Church, Sawkill.

Edward McCaffery, Jack McCaffery and William J. Walsh visited Kingston on Thursday last.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wilkins of New York city are visiting Mrs. Neenan for a short time.

The late Patrick Donaldson, formerly of Sawkill, was buried in St. Ann's Cemetery after a funeral Mass at St. Ann's Church on Monday morning, May 14.

On Monday last J. Wilkins caught a fine mess of fish in the Sawkill creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hopper of Kingston have opened up their summer home in this place.

Mrs. Robert Patrick, her brother-in-law, James Patrick, Thomas Green, Evelyn Patrick, Mrs. McCaffery and daughter, Ellen, all of New York city, were visitors here last week.

Metals Become "Fatigued."

Many serious accidents have occurred because some important part of a machine has failed owing to "fatigue." That may sound surprising, but engineers know that steel and iron, when subjected to heavy loads and vibrations for long periods, undergo a serious internal change. This change so weakens the material that a chain may snap with only half the weight it would ordinarily carry. More surprising still is the news that a metal can fall ill or be poisoned. Alloys—that is, mixtures of aluminum with other metals are especially liable to develop a disease that causes them to rot away.

Beautiful State Parks

View in Palisades Interstate Park, Along the Hudson

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.) Millions know their city parks from everyday use, and they have been or hope to go to their national parks, but the phrase "state parks" is new to them. Even most reference books will be searched in vain for any mention of these newest of public recreation grounds.

State parks are pocket editions of our great National Park system. They are the stop-over places of the motorist. They perch on barren peaks and preserve tree-bordered lovers' lanes beside running brooks. They take in such shrines as Lincoln's birthplace and James Whitcomb Riley's "old swimmin' hole." They perpetuate far older history than that to be found in history textbooks. Starved Rock park, Illinois, commemorates the time when America's inland region was a sea; when the cosmic happenings of millions of years ago deposited the shells and precipitated the lime which formed the magnesium layer of this region.

Iowa invited its citizens to an hour's auto ride from "prairie land to fairyland." In Wisconsin you can rent an island for ten dollars a year. State parks save the open play spaces amid dense populations of the East and they keep out encroaching farm lands of the Middle West. Rip Van Winkle sought succor in a little from a shrunken spouse, but the city man today, harried by a hundred worries, can take wife and children for a 48-hour's rest to the hills where Rip retreated.

Our own parks bear evidence of our new governmental ideal. Originally a park, says Noah Webster, was "an inclosed piece of ground stocked with beasts of the chase held by prescription or the king's grant." Today a park might be defined as "an uninclosed piece of ground stocked with beasts, not to be chased, or killed, held by prescription of the people for their own use."

Nobody knows exactly how many state parks there are in 1923. Two years ago a survey by the National Park service showed that 26 states had state parks. The movement has taken such a hold within the last few years that the park areas within these states has expanded materially and other states have embarked upon park programs.

Hartford Set the Example. Hartford has a park which is an early example of the best sort of civic publicity and also established a park precedent. Search your memory and see whether you have not forgotten most of the statistics and slogans which greet you upon huge signboards placed along the railway tracks by trade bodies of many enterprising cities. But nobody who has entered Hartford by train, in daylight, is likely to forget the sylvan beauty of Bushnell park, which adjoins the station with the tree-shaded Connecticut capitol building set on its central hill.

Horace Bushnell worked for five years to persuade his neighbors to tax themselves to buy this tract. Thus Bushnell park is a monument marking the first time in history when the people bought a tract with their own money to be used as a public park.

Exactly opposite to the days when feudal barons used a park to keep the public out is the era when the essential element of a park is that King Auto and Sovereign Pedestrian must have easy access. Colorado proclaims that she has a motorists' camp in every town of a thousand or more people. Iowa avers that she has more camp sites per capita than any other state.

New York, with forty reservations, comprising nearly 2,000,000 acres, heads the list of states in the extent of her park system. Ten million people, it is estimated, can reach the Palisades Interstate park in a two-hour ride by auto or boat.

Nowhere are parks longer regarded as luxuries; but in New York state they are an additional necessity because they protect the vitally important watersheds in the north of the state. Upon this protection depends the great industrial enterprises which use hydro-electric power.

State parks vary in size from the three and a third million acres of the Adirondack park in New York state, a park with primordial forests and numerous lakes and rivers, to the one-acre sand bar in the Connecticut river which is Dart Island State park of Connecticut.

Historic Sites and Scenery. State pride in characteristic natural features and historic sites frequently determines the selection of the state park sites as in the cases of the Royal Palm State park of Florida, with its luxuriant everglades; the Reinwood State park of California, in which are some of that state's big trees, the Old Salem State park, of Illinois, which takes in the former home of Abraham Lincoln. Practically all the state parks of Pennsylvania appear to be associated with military memories.

Scenic wonders are as various as the panorama from the river bluffs of the Nelson-Dewey State park of Wisconsin, the curiously modelled gorges of the Mashamquet Brook State park of Connecticut, the canyons and gulches of the Starved Rock State park of Illinois, the vast expanse of sand dunes of the proposed lake front park in Indiana, and the curious geology and mystery water body of Devil's Lake State park in Wisconsin.

Comparatively few state parks were known outside the borders of their own states a few years ago but the automobile tourist and the back-to-nature vacationist are blurring their way to those parks in rapidly increasing numbers from ever greater distances.

It is wholly probable that thousands whose married life has begun to the honeymoon music of thunderous Niagara do not know that the American portion of the falls lies within a state park, and this particular state park has an interest even beyond that of protecting a majestic natural wonder from exploitation. Its acquisition set the legal precedent for appropriating public money for saving scenic objects for public use. The 112 acres of land surrounding the falls and the 300 more acres under water marked the first place in the United States where condemnation proceedings were employed for the sole object of preserving natural scenery.

An Iowan may pick out a site in Keosauqua, build a summer cottage there, and go back year after year, without paying rent. In many parks camping sites are available for tents, fireplaces are provided, wood is distributed by rangers, and what might be termed a "park de luxe" is the beautiful Starved Rock State park in Illinois, which has electric lights, sewerage, artesian water and fire protective apparatus.

Life in the Primitive. A wilder and more primitive life is to be found in other parks, such as the Itasca State park in Minnesota, where 22,010 acres comprise a forest and a lake, with fish of many species, and beaver and elk have been introduced.

Valley Forge park and Washington Crossing park in Pennsylvania give a hint of the military associations of the Keystone State's parks. In addition there are, in Pennsylvania, reservations under the state forest commission which serve a like purpose and afford campers and hikers many square miles of primitive country.

Though the state park systems in some states are clear cut and well defined, in others it is difficult to determine from their designations when a park is an historic site, a place for motoring, camping, or a picnic ground. All are equally to be commended, but Connecticut's idea of a state park, such as Selden Neck, part of a beautiful island on the lower Connecticut, where families may take a picnic luncheon, is very different from that of Wisconsin where you may rent an island in an up-state lake and remain there all summer.

Kentucky bids fair to follow in the steps of Illinois in selecting historic sites for parks. Two prospective parks of the Blue Grass state are the place near Bardonia where Stephen Foster wrote "My Old Kentucky Home" and the place of Lincoln's birth near Hodgenville. A third is Mammoth cave.

State parks are being welded into something like a system. Conferences of state park officials are held annually in one of the parks for the discussion of common problems.

Surroundings Affect Color.

Birds, which habitually lay their eggs in the dark, produce eggs which show an absence of pigment, while those that lay their eggs in exposed places usually produce eggs which harmonize in some measure with their surroundings.

But How About the Neighbors?

Famous Tenor (3 a. m.)—Isn't baby wonderful, dear? What wonderful range of expression and what tone! He held that last note for two minutes without weakening—he's going to be a sensation.

Set yourself straight on these Bran facts!

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give—you must be certain to get Kellogg's Bran, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! You haven't time to waste on 25 per cent or 50 per cent relief when you know that Kellogg's Bran will give you 100 per cent relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's Bran is a necessity!

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL BRAN—is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

If you would realize how delicious Kellogg's Bran is—cooked, krumbled and ready to eat—and what it means to your health—you would not lose a minute starting to eat it! All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran in the Red and Green package.

A. L. AUXILIARY MEETING TONIGHT

The regular monthly meeting of American Legion Auxiliary will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the state armory. Every member is earnestly urged to attend as important business is to be transacted.

The American Legion Auxiliary of Saugerties has been invited to be present, and have accepted the invitation. Kingston members are expected to come out and give them a welcome. After the business meeting a measuring social will be held. A nickel for each foot high. Members should bring enough nickels, whether they are tall or short. A pleasing program has been arranged by the Entertainment Committee, which will be enjoyed by all those who attend. The program is as follows:

Reading by Master Joseph Black.
Fancy dancing, in costume by the Misses Harriet and Martha Hewitt.
Piano solo by Miss Frances J. Jackson.
Members are asked to bear in mind that all arrangements for sale of people for Memorial Day, take place at this meeting and those who will help, are urged to come and say so.

Plenty of "goodies" will be served for refreshments and naturally provision has been made for the legion members in the way of "smokes." Members are requested not to forget to bring any old silk stockings they may have. Disabled veterans are able to use these in the making of rugs and other beautiful articles, and they need more material.

COLOR IS IMPORTANT FACTOR

Interesting Experiments Have Shown That Light Paint Is Best for Ships' Bottoms.

Some interesting results have been obtained by J. Paul Vischer in his study of the fouling of ships' bottoms. These results indicate that the color of the paint used is an important factor in determining the amount of fouling. Plates painted with different colors were exposed in sea water at the Beaufort laboratory and the development of the growths was observed over a period of several months. The plates were identical, except for the color used, and since all factors influencing them were the same, it may be concluded that any difference in the amount or the nature of fouling was dependent on color. These colors include white, black, yellow, red, green and blue.

The results show clearly that there was much more fouling on the dark plates than on those with lighter colors. The contrast between the white and black plates was especially marked. Barnacles which constitute a large percentage of the total amount of fouling, were especially affected by color. They were found only on the blue and black plates and were more abundant on the black. Hydroids were also practically confined to the dark plates.

The results are apparently explained by the fact that at the time of attachment of the larvae to these forms the organisms are negatively photographic, that is, they tend to go away from the source of light. This experiment is in accord with observations made on the growth on ships' bottoms where the densest growths are found in regions least exposed to light. The notes and tentative conclusions are at present based on a limited amount of evidence, and it is expected that the problem will be more thoroughly investigated through experiments in which many of the less-known factors may be more definitely controlled.—Fisheries Service Bulletin.

PLACED HIS BET AND LOST

Walter Took a Chance, but Evidently It Did Not Happen to Be His Lucky Day.

An old darkey waiter had served a modest but quite perfect lunch to two elderly and thrifty-looking guests. He had inquired how each dish suited their taste, whether it had been seasoned properly, if it was hot enough or refreshingly chilled. The check was presented at the close of the meal. It was $3.40. One of the guests glanced over it and placed a $5 bill on the tray. The waiter disappeared, all smiles, and returned with the change—a $1 bill and 50-cent piece and a dime. He put the tray at the guest's elbow and waited doubtfully. He watched the dollar bill slowly withdrawn and then after a painful pause, the 50-cent piece. The tray, with its lonely dime, was shoved toward him. He picked it up, looked at it and gave a long sigh. "Boss," he said, "I gambled and I lost"—Judge

Monaco Gambling Metropolis.
Monaco, on the French Mediterranean coast, is the smallest independent state in Europe, having an area of only eight square miles, but containing a population of 28,000. The principality, once considerably larger than at present, belonged to the Grimaldi family, but in 1861 Prince Charles III ceded the greater part of it to France. Monaco's hereditary sovereign is a prince, who is assisted in governing by a council of state. The principal city is Monte Carlo, famous for its casino, the two others being Monaco and Condamine.

FEDERATION GIFT TO Y. W. C. A. FUND

The last executive committee meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs for this season was held on Thursday afternoon at the Kingston City Library, the president, Mrs. G. F. Rice, presiding.

Following the routine business, it was announced that the May open meeting of the Federation, which is also the annual meeting, which was to have been held Saturday afternoon, had been postponed one week owing to the sessions of the Parent-Teacher Federated Council meeting on that day. On Saturday, May 26, The Coterie will entertain the Federation at its open meeting in the lecture room of the Trinity M. E. Church on Wurts street. The speaker for the afternoon will be Mrs. Hiram Cady who will relate some of the most interesting experiences of her recent trip abroad. The address will be followed by an informal reception to the retiring and newly elected officers of the Federation and those individual members who have joined the Federation during the year, and tea will be served.

At the March open meeting of the Federation it was voted that every Federation woman should contribute 25 cents toward the fund needed by the Third district branch to entertain the entire State Federation at its fall meeting. For the most part the presidents of the Federated Clubs have collected from their clubs this amount or made some other arrangement whereby the apportionate sum from their clubs would be contributed. Mrs. Rice asks particularly that such sums be sent to her as soon as possible as she can then take them to the June meeting of the Third district branch to be held in Troy. All individual members who have not yet paid in their 25 cents, are asked to send the same as soon as possible to Mrs. A. Ray Powley, 285 East Strand, that she may get the full amount from the individual members to Mrs. Rice.

One new member was received into the Federation, Miss Nellie Brown. The executive committee passed a resolution that a communication be addressed to Governor Smith asking him to veto the Mullan-Gage law repealer in the interest of law enforcement.

All club presidents and committee chairmen were reminded to have ready for the annual meeting a brief report of the year's work.

On motion of Dr. Mary Gage-Day and seconded by Mrs. C. N. Reed, it was voted to recommend to the general meeting soon to be held, that $50 from the Federation Civic fund, and $50 from the Federation general fund be contributed to the Y. W. C. A. campaign fund, making a full contribution of $100 from the Federation for the two years.

For Cleaning Trays.

Lacquered trays can be cleaned in middings. They should never be touched with water, which ruins them and takes away the shiny appearance. Any stains can be removed by the aid of lissol or other oil, applied on a rag, a little at a time. Then scatter middings liberally over the tray and polish with a soft duster. An old silk handkerchief or an old seivette rag may be used for the purpose.

HE GOT HIS ANSWER

"He drove straight to his goal," said the orator. "He looked neither to the right nor to the left, but pressed forward, moved by a definite purpose. Neither friend nor foe could delay him nor turn him from his course. All who crossed his path did so at their own peril. What would you call such a man?"

"A truck driver," shouted someone from the audience.

Keeping Up the Custom.

"When I was a boy I sent my present wife, who was then a girl, a 10-cent valentine. That is how our romance started. I send her a valentine like it every year."

"For 10 cents?"

"Yes."

"Hum! I started off with American beauty roses."

Misplaced.

"The sermon was good, but I didn't think much of the choir," said Mr. Grumpson.

"The soprano was a beauty."

"Maybe so, but the place for a pretty woman who can't sing, but who goes through the motions, is in musical comedy."

No Harmony.

Wife—But you said this was such a lovely apartment.

Poetic Husband—I know I did. But the wallpaper clashes with my poetic imagination and I can't write.

Boy, Page the Eye Doctor!

"How did you ever get caught in such a position, Betty?"

"Well, he wanted to see what color my eyes were."

"That's harmless enough."

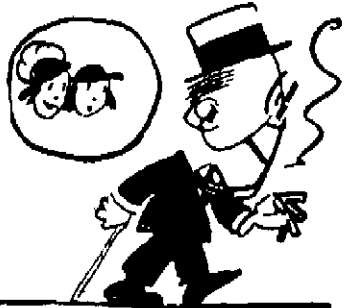

"Yes, but he's so darned near-sighted."

Some Story.

A Big Order

Curious Coinage.

It is said that an Englishman who contemplated a visit to the United States and a trip from New York to San Francisco asked how many times the coinage changed during the journey. Perhaps some justification for his ignorance exists in the number of different coinages in the British empire. The royal mint at London not long ago struck nearly 32,000,000 coins of aluminum for circulation in Uganda and the Nigerian protectorates. Each coin is the value either of 1 cent or 2 mills and is perforated like Chinese coins, so that the natives can string it. The lightness of aluminum and the fact that it is the best non-germ-bearing metal are said to be the reasons for its selection. "Lightly come and lightly go" will be especially true of this money.

Monkey Flower.

"Flor de Mico," one of the most beautiful trees of the tropics, has been imported from Guatemala by the United States Department of Agriculture to make Florida winters still more attractive to tourists. Wilson Popenoe, explorer for the bureau of plant industry, brought home 15 pounds of seed, from which several thousand sturdy young plants have been grown for distribution in the southern part of the Everglades state and in our tropical dependencies. "Flor de mico," which is Spanish for monkey flower, drops its leaves and the entire tree becomes covered with crimson scarlet blossoms at the end of winter. It resembles the royal poinsettia, but, unlike the latter, will bloom when the tourist trade is there to appreciate it.

Straws and the Wind.

Often the primary character of a man is revealed in trifles; for then he acts as it were, unconsciously. You may learn more of a person by a little talk with him than by a faithful outline of his history. The most important of his actions may not really display the man's heart; they are likely to be the results of many things besides his nature. To understand that, you may learn much more from a good portrait of him than from two or three of the most prominent actions of his life. Indeed, if men did not express much of their nature in their manner, appearance and general bearing, we should be at a sad loss to make up our minds how to deal with each other.

Sir Arthur Helps.

Make Homes in Clay Muds.

The native of Kirdi-Massa, on the west coast of Africa, builds his home of a stiff clay much like the adobe used by Mexicans and Indians, says Popular Science Monthly. This is poured over a framework of slender wooden poles used as reinforcements, and allowed to dry in the sun. The design is worked on with a crude trowel-like tool while the mud is moist. The houses look like huge ant-hills, with only an inadequate opening for a door in the side and a small round chimney hole at the top to admit light and air. The design on the outside is often elaborate and worked out with the greatest pains, for it serves to identify the owner of the hut, and is virtually "copyrighted" by him.

Argentina.

Argentina, or the Argentine Republic, has an area of 1,193,000 square miles and a population of about 7,800,000. The resources include forests of hardwood in the north, pine forests in the Andes region; coal is found; but the chief sources of wealth are agriculture and the pastures. Large numbers of sheep and cattle are raised; dairying is important, and the chief crops are wheat, linseed, oats, barley, rye, and Indian corn. In some parts sugar cane and fruits are cultivated.

SURVEY

ploy such number of public health nurses as in his judgment may be necessary within the limits of the appropriation made therefor by the city, town or village. They shall work under the direction of the health officer and may be assigned by him to the reduction of infant mortality, etc.

The details of providing relief to needy cases should not be attended to by the nurse. All such cases are referred to the philanthropic and relief agencies of the city.

There is a growing interest throughout the state in the establishment of a municipal health center, which includes the tuberculosis, venereal disease, mental and dental clinics, and the child hygiene station with branch stations located where they are needed.

Kingston has the service of two public health nurses, the one in charge of communicable diseases and the other in charge of tuberculosis cases. There is need in Kingston of one or more child hygiene stations. It may seem advisable to the committee when considering the plans for a child hygiene station to consider the establishment of a municipal health center of which the child hygiene station would be a part.

This committee can have the sympathetic and helpful cooperation from the New York state health department in making plans for the extension of health service in Kingston.

Kingston City Library.

The trustees of the Kingston City Library are confronted with a situation that compels them to either appeal to the public to help support the library for the current year or to curtail the library's usefulness. Before resorting to the latter measure, the trustees have decided to ask those who are interested in the institution to contribute $5.00 or more to its support for the present year.

A charter appropriation of $3,000 with occasional gifts and entertainments for the benefit of the library have been heretofore its sole support. The increased use of the library requires additional service; the salaries of the employees have been nearly doubled; the increased cost of books and replacing old ones has raised the yearly expense of maintaining the library to $7,000. Unless the trustees have $3,000 additional for use this year, the library must be put on part time and the purchase of new books and the replacement of old ones must be discontinued. In view of the fact that fifty thousand persons use the Kingston City Library every year, the public should respond to the appeal of the trustees and enable them to keep open an institution that has been of constant service to the city over a long period of years.

Charities.

There are not a sufficient number of the excessively poor in Kingston to form a distinct social class. A survey cannot discover a "black hole" or a zone of poverty. Bad housing conditions exist in certain places, but bitter poverty is not in evidence. It seems that every able-bodied person in Kingston can find a living, and the standard is relatively high. Kingston is a good place in which to live. Charity and relief can be engaged only with individual and scattered cases of misfortune.

These rather exceptional conditions readily explain why there is no civic organization for relief. The need has not been sufficiently great to force action. The Catholic and Protestant churches care for their own. The city has an efficient Overseer of the Poor.

The Board of Child Welfare and the County Agency for Dependent Children are giving a valuable service to the county and city of Kingston. The following statement of the year ending June 30th, 1922 shows the scope of the work of the County Agency for Dependent Children:

Total expenditures for care of children in the county, (including city) $19,679.52.

1—Paid partly from appropriation, ($2000.00) to County Superintendent of the Poor raised on county at large, partly by Board of Supervisors and charged back to the towns, and partly from refund of parents, ($1923.62.)

2—Paid by City of Kingston.

3—Paid by Town of Sangerites.

4—Paid by Ulster County Committee of the State Charities Aid Association from appropriation of Board of Supervisors, ($1500.00.) money raised privately, ($1276.56) and balance, ($953.83) on hand June 30, 1921.

The schedule of expenses does not include any account of sums paid by overseers for the support of children in their own homes. The agent knows of three families thus supported and there may be more. It does not include money paid to state institutions for clothing.

An amendment has been proposed to the Law Governing Board of Child Welfare which, if adopted, would give all of the money spent as shown in the above statement in charge of the Board of Child Welfare. The announcement of this plan made by the present Board of Child Welfare is:

"A general appropriation to cover expenses of administration would be made by the Board of Supervisors. Bills for the care of children would be paid by the Board of Child Welfare and covered by either a general appropriation or be charged back to the towns where the parents of the children had their residences. (This would be decided by the Board of Supervisors.)

"A Board of Child Welfare, when so established, shall be responsible for the relief and care of dependent children received by it as public charges and of such children as may be committed to it by the courts, and it shall administer public aid for dependent children generally. It may administer such relief and care either directly or through a duly authorized association, agency, society or institution.

"According to this amendment the Board of Child Welfare would continue as now constituted, except that the first vacancy of an appointive member that occurs shall be filled by the chairman of the Board of Supervisors or a supervisor designated by the Board of Supervisors who shall be an ex-officio member."

In the course of her duties the agent for the care of children in the county often finds a family in need of relief—coal, food or clothing, and the case is promptly reported to the Overseer of the Poor or to some private agency. The two nurses of the Board of Health are also on the alert for any case that has not been reported. No family or individual suffering from real want can long remain undiscovered.

The relief work of the city during this last year is given in the recent report of the Overseer of the Poor:

Alms-house.
Superintendent salary ..	$1,500 00
Office	100 00
Alms-house	1200 00
Maintenance of inmates ..	5,200 00
Kingston City Hospital ..	4,500 00
Benedictine Hospital	3,000 00
Tuberculosis Hospital	250 00
Buildings, (almshouse) ..	5,225 00
Operating expenses	5,100 00

Support of children	2,500 00
Court	50 00
Transportation	50 00
Clothing for insane	50 00
Miscellaneous	1,800 00
Total	$39,397 50

It is probably true that every case acutely in need of relief is found and cared for. In fact there is a probability of duplication of effort and supplies because of no correlation of the different agencies at work. In cities where relief work is well organized, the executive secretary is forced to keep a careful record and see that two or three separate agencies or individuals are not helping the same case. Confusion is avoided when a central organization takes complete charge of the actual relief work, and asks only that other cases be reported.

Conditions in Kingston do not call for the establishment of a "Charity Organization," but a number of prominent people of Kingston familiar with the local situation think that a central committee with a paid secretary is needed. Every agency in the city regularly called upon for aid should be represented in this committee. It would be the duty of the secretary to keep a record of all relief work and advise upon all worthy cases. With such a committee as this in operation, the saving in money and effort during the course of a year would be considerable.

(To Be Continued.)

The next installment will cover "Some things that Kingston wants," with answers by various persons to questions sent out while the survey was being made.

WOMEN OF ULSTER CLASSIS MEET

An excellent program was carried out at the first spring conference of the Women's Auxiliaries of the Classis of Ulster, which was held in the Reformed church of Saugerties on May 15th. The largest delegation was from the Church of The Comforter, Kingston.

The session opened with singing "The Church's One Foundation", followed by the reading of Scripture by Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, and prayer by the Rev. H. L. Sheffer. The convention was then called to order by the president, Mrs. M. L. Weed, who introduced Mrs. Winfield Swart, of the Flatbush society, who gave the welcoming greetings of the Fourth group of the Union. Mrs. Alfred D. Van Buren responded most fittingly. The societies responded to the roll call by Scripture texts.

Committees were appointed as follows:—Courtesy: Mrs. J. V. Wemple, Miss Maye Osterhout; resolutions: Mrs. M. F. Luther and Mrs. A. Zabriskie; subscription: All members. Singing of "Fling out the Banner" was followed by full reports by the auxiliaries. The auxiliary having the largest membership (106) is that of the First Reformed church of Kingston. All reports were most encouraging, showing growth in membership, finances, and spirit.

A clear and very earnest address was then given by Mrs. Charles W. Smith, of the Hurley church, on the topic: "Colored people of the South." Urging a larger Reformed church response to the needs of a new school building at Brewton, Alabama. $17,000 will be needed for an adequate building and its furnishings. Mrs. J. D. Turner then spoke of the grateful appreciation of these people of what her Sunday school class had done for them.

The Kingston-group report was then given by Miss Luther, the group secretary. She re-stated the object of the group meetings, which is that the stronger society should help the weaker one. Societies nearest to the churches which have no societies should interest themselves in the women of such churches.

The morning session closed with the singing of "Christ to the world we bring." Mrs. Finger announced the luncheon for the delegates. The Mizpah benediction was given by the members.

The afternoon session began at 1:25 o'clock, at the call of the president, and the Scripture reading was a responsive one, led by Mrs. J. B. Stokette, who also made the prayer. After a hymn and an offering Miss O. H. Lawrence, representing the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, R. C. A., spoke on the work of that board, giving her first hand observations of the work, especially in India, and telling of the great rejoicing because their prayers had been answered for the raising of the $2,000,000 fund. This fund was for the erection of college buildings for the women of the east.

"The Needs of the Alien in our Midst" was then presented by Mrs. Alfred D. Van Buren, showing that we have a work to be done in the home-land as well as abroad. "God has a great work for America to do, and if we have Christ in our hearts we too will help the foreigners who come to our shores."

The conference then discussed: 1. How to increase the membership; 2. Best methods of increasing our gifts; 3. How can we create an interest in missionary work; and last, shall the spring conference be continued. The vote on the last question was well nigh unanimous in favor of continuance.

Mrs. Dorothy Overbaugh then sang a pleasing solo. Miss Lawrence responded to the president's request that she give her suggestions on the several topics under discussion. Miss Luther, of the Port Ewen society, read a paper on "Japan and its needs", describing that country and showing that the interests of Christianity among that very patriotic people will be advanced by the spread of Christian education among their women.

The last speaker was Miss Florence Relyea, of the Bloomingdale society, who emphasized the great need in China of consecrated, educated, native leadership, and that we may contribute toward that object by our spiritual interest, in prayer and material gifts.

The committee on resolutions reported, expressing two gratitude the conference felt to all who had in any way contributed toward the success of the sessions. A dainty and appetizing luncheon was served at noon by the members of the Saugerties society.

After the reading and approval of the record of the day's sessions, the pastor of the Saugerties church, the Rev. Homer L. Sheffer, pronounced the benediction and the conference adjourned.

Taken From Australian Poet.

The author of some famous and beautiful lines, which have been attributed to Mark Twain, was Robert Richardson, the Australian poet. When the report that these lines were attributed to him reached Mark Twain he ordered that the name of the author be cut beneath them on the stone over the grave of his daughter, Susy Clemens, says an exchange. The lines are as follows:

Warm summer sun, shine kindly here:
Warm southern wind, waft it where:
Green and above, lit light, lit light:
Good-night, dear heart, good-night, good night!

In the original the word "southern" read "northern," as in Australia the warm wind is from the north.

The Nine Muses.

The nine Muses were: Clio, the Muse of history; Euterpe, of lyric poetry and music; Thalia, of comedy; Melpomene, of tragedy; Urania, of astronomy; Erato, of lyric and erotic poetry; Polyphonia, of the sublime hymn; Terpsichora, of the dance; Calliope, of epic poetry. Plots for stories can obviously be classified in numerous ways, but we are unable to state how many or which ones can be truly termed the original ones.

IN FIELDING GROUND BALLS ACT QUICKLY

Player Should Come Up on His Toes and Be Ready to Start on Every Pitched Ball.

(By CARL LUNDGREN, Baseball Coach, University of Illinois.)

I believe players should observe six fundamentals in fielding ground balls; that is, they should start fast, get square in front of all balls that they can; keep their body low; watch the ball go into their hands; use their feet properly and make every effort to catch the ball on a long bound or on a pickup.

On every pitched ball fielders should come up off their heels and onto their toes ready to start as fast as they can run in a direction that will put them in front of the ball. Usually a player should be able to tell on which side of him the ball will be hit before the batter hits, by watching the swing of the bat and the position of the pitched ball relative to the batter. Oftentimes, if you will watch in fielders, you will observe that many will leap forward and to one side or the other and often take a full step even though the ball is not hit. This means a fast start in fielding the ball if it is hit and the ability to cover much more territory. It also means that they may slow up when they come to the point where they can take the ball on a long bound or a pickup if it is hit down the infield with ordinary speed and not to the limits of their fielding area. In other words, they can play the ball and not allow the ball to play them. You should get square in front of all balls, if possible, in order to reach as far as possible to either side if the ball bounds badly to one side on the last bound before catching it and also to use your body and feet to keep the ball in front of you in case it cannot be played with your hands. Many assists are made over balls that drop in front of you that have been stopped by body and feet. One of the fundamentals of all baseball is to keep the ball in front of you. There are balls at the limits of your fielding area that you can play only with your hands because you cannot get your body in front of them, also slow-hit balls that you must go in as fast as you can and take in any way that they come to you in order to get the putout, also long bounding that you can play on the side in order to be in a better position to throw, but on ordinary ground balls it should be easy to understand that, if you play them on the side and they bound a little farther to that side than you expected, you will be unable to knock them down and play them. They will go to the outfield, possibly between them, and if it is an outfielder playing the ball, it seems an extra base hit.

Keep your body low. No player was kept too long on ground balls but many have been unable to keep low enough. Many balls have been too low for a player to reach when he could have had his body lower and reached them with ease. It is much easier to raise up for a ball than to stoop lower. A player should practice until it becomes second nature to him. Start fast to get in front of the ball and when you have it played straight most of the way to you is no reason to expect it won't bound crookedly on the last bound nor can you expect to move your hands and catch it if you do not see it when it bounds crookedly.

Learn to judge the speed of base-runners and to time your fielding and throwing accordingly. If you have time, play the ball safely, but if you have to hurry, be able to fudge how fast you must make the play. Make all plays that are possible with two hands—which includes bunted and slow-hit balls. Some of the latter you may have to play with one hand. Avoid throwing underhand when possible to do so. It is not as accurate, especially on long throws, harder to handle, hard on the arm and not necessary nearly so often as thought. In some cases it is absolutely necessary, but as a usual thing it is better to throw half over the shoulder or at least over the wrist.

MILE OF CONCRETE PAVING

According to Department of Agriculture 3,813 Barrels of Cement Will Be Needed.

What goes into a mile of concrete paving? The answer makes an interesting story and the data are available from Bulletin 1077, issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. According to the bulletin, a mile of concrete pavement 7 inches thick at the edges and 8 inches thick at the center will require 3,813 barrels of portland cement. With it must be mixed 1,102 cubic yards of sand, 1,664 cubic yards of crushed rock, 30 gallons of water are needed to mix and cure a square yard of concrete pavement, or more than 300,000 gallons of water must be furnished for a mile of road. Approximately 4,500 tons of concrete goes into the construction.

In making the cement required for a mile of pavement over 300 tons of coal are burned at the cement mill, and approximately 18 tons of gypsum are required to regulate the setting time of the material. To ship the cement to the scene of the paving requires some 15,000 cloth sacks, 15 bales of cotton are woven into cloth to supply this item. In a year about 30,000,000 sacks are lost and destroyed.

Back in the cement quarries 450 tons of dynamite are shot off for blasting rock for the cement required in this one mile of concrete pavement. A good idea of what highway construction means to the railroads can be obtained from these figures: Forty-two cars of fine sand, 65 cars of crushed rock, 20 cars of cement. When reinforcing is specified, further transportation is called for.

While the water supply is governed by local conditions, in addition to these requirements, the drainage pipe, bridge and culvert construction must be provided for.

As the peak of the demand comes during the late summer, there is difficulty in getting materials on the job at the exact time desired. Earlier shipment of construction materials and loading of cars in capacity would go a long way toward helping the congested condition.

SURPLUS ARMY SUPPLIES AID

Bureau of Public Roads Has Allotted $190,000,000 Worth of Road-Building Material.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Approximately $190,000,000 worth of road-building machinery, and other supplies from the surplus war material of the army, including 30,000 motor vehicles, have been allotted by the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture. This material, of which approximately $150,000,000 worth has been delivered says the bureau in its annual report, has enabled many of the states to organize and equip maintenance divisions to patrol the entire state road system.

The largest item of materials delivered consisted of shop machinery and shop tools and equipment. This enabled the state highway departments to equip shops for reconditioning and repairing motor vehicles and other motor-driven machinery received from the government. The shop machinery consisted mainly of lathes, tool grinders, milling machines, cutting machines, planers, drill presses, and electric motors.

Approximately 8,000,000 pounds of picric acid have been distributed for road-building and land-clearing purposes. In addition to the material distributed from the excess stores at camps and arsenals in the United States, there are now being returned from Germany and France 50 motor trucks, 25 Cadillac automobiles, and 3,000,000 pounds of spare motor-vehicle parts, shop machinery, and machine tools.

Motorcycle Deputies.

The highway commission of Maryland has 20 paid motorcycle deputies, who patrol the state and have the power to make speed traps and cause arrests, thereby eliminating the "grafting" constable and rural squire.

Width of Road to Drag.

The width of traveled way to be maintained by the drag should be from 18 to 20 feet; first drag a little more than the width of a single wheel track, then gradually increase until desired width is obtained.

Production by Silk Worms.

Silk worms of the world, taken together, produce 4,700 miles of fine silk thread every second of their workday, about 150,000,000,000 miles a year.

Amazing to Those Who Know Costly Cars

Most persons who know costly cars well, are amazed when they learn how closely Hupmobile construction parallels that of the most expensive cars.

The truth is that many Hupmo-

They must be, or Hupmobile would not mean motor car economy, and motor car long life, to the pronounced extent it means both today.

from Grandma to the Baby

—every member of your family ought to eat Mapi-Flake for breakfast.

What makes the children romp and play, the old folks act so bright and gay? Why, eating Mapi-Flake each day. To good health thus they pave the way.

Mapi-Flake is the "food that keeps you right"—a whole wheat flake with all of the bran left in. There's enough bran to be a harmless, natural laxative—and yet it is so hidden in the delightful flavor that you would never know it's there.

We take selected whole wheat, sweeten it, flake it, and toast it to a delicious brown. You get all of the nutrition in the whole wheat. You get vitamins A and B which science has discovered are so necessary to good health and "farm hand" appetites. And you get the harmless, non-habit-forming laxative action of the bran as well—all of the pleasure of eating a tasty nourishing food, all of the advantage of bran.

$1000 in Prizes for Jingles

Come on, you Mapi-Flakers! Write a four-line jingle telling how good Mapi-Flake is and how good it is for you. Write a lot of them—and win one of 165 prizes. First prize, $250. Contest closes August 15, 1923. Mail your entries early to the Contest Manager, Armour Grain Company Chicago, Ill.

EXPLORING IN CHINA PERILOUS

Clifford Pope Tells of Many Difficulties Faced.

BANDS OF OUTLAWS ARE BUSY

After reading the interesting accounts of explorers, the average person is prone to feel that the daily life of those sent out to little-known quarters of the globe is one continual round of pleasure with an ever-changing field of beauty. A survey of the account of Clifford H. Pope, a member of the Third Asiatic expedition, which has been sent out by the American Museum of Natural History in co-operation with Asia Magazine, and who is collecting fish and reptiles, should disillusion such persons. In a letter just received from Mr. Pope he states that he is collecting on the island of Hainan, China, and says:

"Hainan is 150 miles by 55, but in order to get on well on the island one would have to know at least six dialects—some of these amounting to different languages. At the port, Hainan, I could not find a man who would serve to act as guide or interpreter even this far in. Here I cannot readily locate a man who can teach me the dialect I need in order to work over on the east coast. To get along in the Nodex market one has to speak three dialects—and not one of the three would be of use in the mountains 15 miles to the south or over on the east coast. Nor would the dialect spoken 15 miles to the south help one over on the east coast."

"In other words you have to change interpreters and boys almost as often as carrying coolies—unless you can master a dialect in a day or two.

Explains Methods of Working.

"My general plan of work after halting in a new locality is to make a careful survey of my surroundings and, after looking over all the area I believe it possible to cover, divide this area up into districts of similar aspects as regards soil, vegetation, lay of the land and the like, then proceed systematically to search over all or part of each type area. If I find anything of particular value and yet fairly common, I post notices in that type area to the effect that I will buy these objects at a certain price. I try to avoid jumping at conclusions or making assumptions that should follow some theory.

"In China, as you know, all is topsy-turvy—you find alligators buried out on what is apparently a barren, uninhabitable plain, and lots of nice fish in what appears to be an eight-foot-in-diameter, two-foot deep mudhole in which no self-respecting fish should live. We always question the natives carefully, especially in thickly settled districts (we have worked almost entirely in such), as they know every inch of the soil, all of which they have turned over or under many, many times. When they tell you unbelievable things you must assume a possibility of truth in spite of the fact that you will often chase mythical dragons, etc.

"Once in a while you will be glad. Who would think of fishing in a mudhole, or searching for alligators on a bare, barren plain right in the heart of a densely populated area and only four miles from a large city! Yes, in China one must assume that anything might live anywhere, and so start from a base of utter ignorance. I by no means despair of locating interesting salamanders in spite of the lack of forests. In fact, I am now fairly certain of two localities where they may be found, and I am sure that each locality has its own species. You probably know that they are worshiped and carefully protected. Where they occur, I think that the Chinese are more than apt to know about them. One has to be careful in collecting them, too. It would be all right if no drought followed, but if one did, well, you would be entirely to blame.

Hainan Overrun With Robbers.

"Hainan is just now overrun with robbers, and one never knows when one will be robbed or kidnaped, although as yet these robbers have not attempted to kidnap a foreigner. It may be because they have had few chances, foreigners, other than missionaries, rarely coming this way. They rob us at will. Only a few days ago they took a $250 microscope on its way to the mission hospital. Chinese citizens always travel with a military guard. On this occasion the band of 100 well-armed robbers easily put to flight the ten guarding soldiers after blowing off the sergeant's head. This robbery took place only four or five miles from Nodex. There have been several since my arrival.

"The robbers enter the market when they wish as no one dares molest them. We expect at any time to be served a notice of a general attack and looting in that case one can only hide one's money and wait. But one is so utterly at the mercy of these outlaws that one never fears. If they come, they come, and if they stay away one thanks one's stars for one's good fortune in not being attacked. They call themselves the People's army.

"Today half the missionaries leave for Kachek which is over on the east coast. Day after tomorrow the last crowd leaves, and then for three weeks I shall be completely alone in charge of the compound—four days from the nearest foreigners."

According to legend, the dragon is associated in the Japanese mind with clouds and tempests. It is thought to be able to ascend Fuji or to dive deep into the waters of some secluded lake. The dragon must not be annoyed, for it possesses the power of causing deadly commotion in the watery element. The palace of the king of the dragons, the Japanese believe, is to be found many leagues under the sea.

Boots.
Father bought a pair of hip boots, in anticipation of the coming fishing season. The boots greatly interested Ann, his three-year-old daughter, so one day when mother and father were preparing for a journey downtown, and mother was putting on her Russian boots, Ann turned to father and said:

"Daddy, why don't you wear your boots too?"

Exasperation.
One day while walking home I was much annoyed to find a dog following me. I turned two or three times and tried to frighten it away. When feeling that it was not coming back, suddenly I heard soft footfalls.

I turned and said: "Will you go home?"

Imagine my embarrassment to find an unknown man walking behind me.—Exchange.

Forest Maps.
Of the 181,790,997 acres included within the boundaries of the national forests, 20 per cent is accurately mapped and 56 per cent has been covered by rough reconnaissance, says the annual report of the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture. On about 24 per cent no mapping work has been done.

Mrs. Ethel Croker White

Mrs. Ethel Croker White, of Cedarhurst, New York, daughter of the late Richard Croker, for many years leader of Tammany Hall in New York, has been permitted by the Irish courts in Dublin to interpose and become party to the suit brought by her brothers and sisters to break the will of their father, leaving several million dollars to his second wife, Beulah Benton Edmondson Croker and cutting off his children. Croker, whose first wife, Miss Elizabeth Frazier, whom he married in 1873, died, immediately married Miss Edmondson, a Cherokee Indian Princess. In her fight to break her father's will, Mrs. White alleges that at the time of her marriage to Croker, Miss Edmondson was the undivorced wife of Guy Morone, of Northport, Massachusetts, and that Croker was ignorant of that fact. Croker spent the last years of his life in Ireland, where he died and was buried. He had long been estranged from his children.

AGE OF MANKIND

Wide Divergence of Opinion Over the Matter.

Estimates Vary as Much as Ten Thousand and One Million Years—Impossible to Fix Date.

Much speculation as to the age of man has arisen as a result of the recent discoveries of fossil human skulls in South America, Patagonia and the island of Jersey. The estimates as to the antiquity of the human race range all the way from 10,000 to 1,000,000 years.

Doctor Wolf's reported discovery in Patagonia of a fossilized human skull of the tertiary period, however, may nullify all previous scientific calculations on this subject, and the public is now getting a little chary about accepting even scientific estimates regarding the date of the origin of the human race.

Ever since the unearthing of the remains of King Tut-Akh-Amen who, in the view of anthropologists, is to be reckoned only as an "infant," as the age of man goes, startling discoveries have been made all over the world which upset all well-established anthropological foundations.

Dr. A. Smith Woodward, director of the geological department of the British museum, makes some interesting commentaries on the latest discoveries in skulls and bones.

"For a moment," says he, "the public seemed to assume that we had found at last the first man who lived on earth. I fear, however, that these conjectures are as baseless as they are interesting. Since the skull from Jersey is said to have been found near a neolithic burial chamber, it is probably much nearer our period than any of the skulls of fossil men which show resemblance to their ape-like ancestors. And since the specimen from Patagonia comes from a country which has furnished more 'man's nests' in the study of prehistoric and ancestral man than any other part of the world, it will not excite interest among anthropologists until some geologist admittedly skilled in such matters has satisfied himself that this is a true fossil, definitely associated with the remains of extinct animals."

Who, then, Doctor Woodward asks, was the first man on earth? "To be strictly accurate," he replies, "we have not yet found him, although we have some reason to think we know where to look. In the dim borderland of time which separates man from monkey there roamed, somewhere in central Asia, a form of large-brained ape destined to be the precursor of man. It is impossible to fix a date for his appearance, but we do know that when he came into being the Himalayan mountains had not yet reared their peaks."

It was in the Neanderthal, near Dusseldorf, Germany, writes Doctor Woodward, that the remains of the earliest man of whom anything is really known were discovered.

"Compared with our knowledge of his ancestors," he says, "he is an intimate acquaintance. But it is impossible to assign him a date in years. Swedish geologists reckon his age as about 12,000 years."

"Neanderthal man," continues the British scientist, "was definitely a man. He lived in caves from which he sallied forth to hunt the animals, such as mammoth, rhinoceros, reindeer and bison, which then roamed over Europe."

"We have found his tools, flint and bone pins with which possibly the early women fastened the rough skins which served them for petticoats. We have also found remains of paint and rouge, which seem to signify the dawn of vanity."

Trade Follows the Film.

American films go everywhere, and it seems that spectators in other lands have been getting more from them than breathless entertainment, "chases" and custard comedy. They have been getting ideas on clothing, office furniture, up-to-date automobiles, domestic conveniences—particularly clothing. Commerce Reports, the government trade publication, instances a citizen of Buenos Aires who sees with his wife an American-made picture. He notices the leading man's smart clothing, while the lady studies the alluring gowns of the heroine. Both conclude that they want their clothes made in America. So trade has begun to follow the film. This is unexpected and gratifying. While there is some dispute as to whether the movie actor can act, nobody disputes that he knows how to dress. The country benefits. You simply never can tell. Cincinnati Times-Star.

Just Like a Nightmare.

Several years ago, when I was living in a large boarding house, I had a most embarrassing experience. While dressing for luncheon one day I remembered an important letter that should go out on the next mail. Without finishing my toilet I went directly to my desk, fearing that I might forget the letter if I did not "do it now."

After finishing the letter, other things occupied my mind until the luncheon bell rang. Then I hurried down to the dining room as I wanted to get an early start to my work uptown. I gave my order, leaned back in the chair to relax while I waited to be served, and dropped my hands into my lap. It was then that I had a real nightmare—a film comedy sensation, for instead of the woolen skirt my hand came in contact with my silk jersey petticoat.—Exchange.

MILITARY DINNER AT STATE ARMORY

Approximately two hundred of the members and friends of Companies E and I gathered at the New York State armory on Thursday evening to enjoy a banquet which had been admirably prepared by Sergeants Ward of Co. E and Preston of Co. I assisted by some of the other members of the company. The menu consisted of the following:

- Celery
- Roast Hister County Chicken
- Mashed Potatoes
- Asparagus
- Coffee
- Cigars and cigarettes

The following men were guests of the companies at the gathering: Colonel George F. Chandler, Major Frank L. Meagher, Major Selig, U. S. A., Captain Everett Fowler, Lieutenant R. C. Dittus, Lieutenant Matthew Bence, Lieutenant Charles T. Dixon and Sergeant Peter Halloran. Major Selig addressed the gathering on the work of the artillery of which the local companies are a branch. Three new members were received into Company E and three into Company I.

After the banquet the guests were entertained by the Imperial Orchestra and six acts of vaudeville including Vera Kingston and the six Rosebuds, all of which were exceptionally good.

Art O'Brien, "Sinn Féin Ambassador" to London, who stood the British Government on its head when he forced the House of Lords to overrule the courts and grant him a writ of habeas corpus, after he and a hundred other Sinn Féiners had been arrested in England and deported to Irish jails, was immediately rearrested on a charge of seditious conspiracy.

POULTNEY BIGELOW PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

Poultney Bigelow, formerly foreign editor of the New York Herald, has been selected as the principal speaker at the annual banquet of American Journalists in convention at Columbia, Missouri, on May 25th. Mr. Bigelow's theme will be "The Future of Colonial Japan."

Leif Ericson, Norse Explorer.

Leif Ericson was a Norse adventurer. According to the Icelandic sagas, he sailed to Greenland with 33 companions about A. D. 1000, and from there in quest of a strange land to the west which had been sighted in 856 by the Norseman, Bjarni Herjulfson. He discovered the country which he named Vineland, from the grape vines he found growing there. The coast on which he landed has been identified variously—by some as that of Labrador or Newfoundland, and by others as that of New England.

Accurate Memory.

An Andalusian, according to a Spanish reading book for students, who was in a hurry went into a restaurant and ordered a meal. When the second course was being served he suddenly said to the waiter, "Where have I seen you before? Your face seems familiar to me!" "I really can't say," the waiter replied. "I haven't the honor of a previous acquaintance." "But I have seen you somewhere! Ah! I have! You are the man who brought me my soup!"

ALL FOOLS' DAY

Part of Folklore of Almost Every Country.

While Some Mystery Enshrouds Its Origin, One Theory Has Been Definitely Abandoned.

Although it has largely degenerated into a nuisance, the observance of All Fools' day is really one of the most interesting relics of old-time folklore. That is partly because of its antiquity, partly because of its widespread practice, but perhaps most of all because of the mystery which enshrouds its origin. Christmas, Easter, St. Valentine's day and other festivals are with entire assurance traced to their sources, but antiquarians have puzzled and searched in vain for an explanation of All Fools' day.

The irreverent and ridiculous theory that it relates to the trial of Jesus Christ, though once widely held, may be dismissed. That it was associated with the ancient celebration of the new year, beginning on March 25 and ending on April 1, seems plausible. So, but for one thing, might it seem plausible that, as some have said, it arose when, in 1564, Charles IX of France ordered the reformed calendar adopted, changing New Year's day from March 25 to January 1; wherefore New Year's gifts were then given on January 1 instead of at the culmination of the old festival on April 1, and sham and mock gifts were given as a joke to those who wanted to stick to the old calendar. The fatal flaw in that theory is that in other countries, notably in India, April 1 was a feast of fools long before the change of calendar, and continued to be so observed in some where there was no change of calendar.

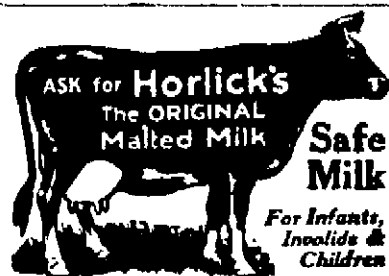

It is interesting to note that the methods of observance and the names applied to victims of jokes vary in different lands. In America and England the aim is to delude the victim with a false story or statement, or with a bogus gift, and the victim is called an April fool. In Scotland the legend of Christ's trial led to the day being observed by sending the victim from person to person and from town to town on an idle errand, and the victim is called a gowk or cuckoo. In France, for some obscure reason, the victim of a delusive story or sham gift is called an April fish. In India the method of trickery is similar to that in Scotland, and as it is there of older date than the Christian era, that fact would seem sufficient to dispose of the legend connecting it with Christ's trial.

Pulling Mr. Spider's Leg.

The domestic spider has domestic difficulties. For example, his wife will not always let him eat in peace; she must pull his leg. And why? Merely because he has a fly and won't share it. Mr. William M. Savin, writing in Natural History, gives this rather amusing account of Mr. and Mrs. Spider at home.

One summer's day at nightfall I found a male domestic spider on the web of a female and placed a fly close to them. Both rushed for it, but as the male happened to be the nearer he swathed it and proceeded to devour it. The female seemed to be greatly annoyed and pulled at his hind legs for some 15 minutes while he fought her off as best he could without turning to face her, feasting as he fought. She then resigned and returned to her former position several inches from him.

When I placed another fly in the web the female promptly ran to it and swathed it. She again returned to her original position, dragging the fly behind her, but in doing so she took an indirect route and, passing the male, gave his hind legs several additional yanks apparently to apprise him of her good fortune in also securing prey—an act that might also be interpreted to be the woman's "last word."—Youth's Companion.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America)

EVERY SCOUT A CAMPER

The year-round slogan of "Every Scout a Camper" has the support of 174,470 boys enrolled in summer council camps of the Boy Scouts of America, an increase of nearly twenty per cent over the preceding year, with thirty-five per cent of scouts, under council jurisdiction in camps. This is exclusive of many hundreds and even thousands of individual campers who are not recorded in official organized council camps. Week-end, holiday, and winter camps are attracting as many and more enthusiasts. Winter outings have become an inseparable activity of the outdoor program.

Older scouts, scoutmasters, and camp leaders are finding adventure and recreation through hiking, trek cart, canoe, cycle, auto, boat, pack train, mountain climbing, and exploration trips. The keynote has been to maintain the pioneer conditions with maximum participation in every camp. A wide acquaintance has been established with outdoor organizations, mountain clubs, and prominent travelers and explorers. Contracts have been made with national and state forests and parks, conservation and forestry organizations. Definite service and assistance has been rendered in developing trails, fire lines, plant disease control, and treeplanting.

One of the outstanding marks of progress is the extent to which winter camping has been enjoyed. Statistics show that camps conducted over week-ends and on holidays, such as Thanksgiving, Christmas, Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays, and Easter week actually attract more boys than the long-term summer camps.

BOY SCOUT RESCUES BABY

Boy scouts are more and more acquiring the valuable habit of "happening along" when there is worthwhile work to be done.

A negro woman carrying a large basket of clothes and accompanied by her two small children was recently walking along in one of the outlying districts of Savannah, Ga., when she came upon a railroad trestle. It was a dangerous place for children to cross unassisted, for the tide-water beneath was ten feet deep. She instructed the little tots to wait for her at one end of the trestle until she crossed with the wash, and then returned for them.

The woman soon gained the other side. She had put down her basket, and was turning for her children, when she saw that they had not waited for her and unescorted were making the hazardous crossing. Suddenly the small child, two years of age, stumbled and slipped through the space between the ties, into the water below.

Scout William McDonough of Troop 14, Savannah, at that moment happened to be out on a hike alone and had also reached the trestle. The boy was in uniform and equipped with pack, hatchet, utensils, etc., for a camping hike. He heard the woman scream and saw her point to the sinking child. The scout hastened to the side of the trestle, and despite the encumbrance of his equipment plunged into the water, clutched the little one and soon dragged him to the shore. Here McDonough applied first aid and within a few moments the child revived.

Through no report of the hero of this rescue did the facts become known. Casual bits of information, pieced together and verified, and also the affidavit of the negro woman made before a scoutmaster, account for this story of splendid heroism.

BOY SCOUTS DO GOOD TURN

Delivering milk may be a prosaic matter, but the way Troop 3 of Eveleth, Minn., did it proved a splendid achievement.

When a family that operated a small dairy in the mining section in which Troop 3 resides took ill during the past winter they were greatly worried as to who would deliver the milk to the neighbor customers. Troop 3 volunteered to deliver the milk and, at 40 degrees below zero, performed their services in a way that brought them the following letter of appreciation:

"Words fail to express our thanks and appreciation for the many thoughtful favors extended to us by the members of Troop 3 during the illness of our family.

"We are glad that our son Pearce is a scout, and hope he may repay this debt many times in the future by doing for others."

SPEAKS TO BOY SCOUTS

"It strikes me that you boys have started to light up the highway of civilization," said Sir Harry Leander to the boy scouts of Winona, Minn., at a luncheon of the Kiwanis club in this city. The distinguished visitor drew his metaphor from his recollections of a little Scottish town where in the gloaming he had watched a lamplighter pass almost unnoticed on his rounds, leaving behind him a "beautifully illumined highway." The great comedian spoke in terms of the highest praise.

JEALOUS SPELL MAKES HIM BAD

Husband All Right Until Spell Over-takes Him—Father of Six Arrested—Drunks Equal Auto Speeders.

"George is all right until he gets a jealous spell," explained Mrs. George Rohmer of No. 24 East Union street, in reply to a question by Judge Schirick in police court this morning. George had been arrested Thursday night for using vile and indecent language on East Union street until a stopper was placed on him by Policeman Peter J. Camp, who escorted Rohmer to the county jail. As a reminder that it does not pay to use such language in public, Judge Schirick imposed a fine of $5, which George paid.

Eugene Avery of Tongore came to Kingston Thursday with $20 in his pocket. He expended $5 in securing a cargo of Colonial joy water and was found helplessly drunk on Wall street that night by Officer Hess. This morning Eugene informed the court that he was the father of six children and that it was the first time he had ever been in the county jail and that he had never been arrested before in his life. As his job was waiting for him, he was fined $10 and payment suspended pending good behavior.

Albert Schussler of Ponckhockie street was arrested Thursday by Officer Kuehn, who found Albert driving 31 miles an hour on Broadway. As this was Albert's second offense as a speeder he was fined $20, which he paid.

John Corkery of Sawkill was picked up on North Front street Thursday night by Officer Hess. This morning John was given three days at 1518 Wall street to sober up. Levi J. Hasbrouck of Old Hurley was arrested Thursday by Officer Kuehn on a charge of speeding 30 miles an hour on Broadway. He gave bail for his appearance later in police court.

Slavery Statistics.

The enslavement of the African race for commercial purposes had its beginning in southern Europe about half a century before the discovery of America by Columbus. It was carried to Central and South America by the Spaniards, and it existed there a hundred years before being transported to the English colonies of North America. From a small beginning made in Virginia the institution grew and spread to other colonies as they were founded, and at the opening of the Revolution there were about 600,000 slaves in the colonies.

"BEAU BRUMMEL" AT THE HIGH SCHOOL TONIGHT.

The Kingston High School seniors' biggest activity of the year, "Beau Brummel," will be put on tonight at the school auditorium, and it promises to be a big success. For the last three days the cast has been working over time, from the time school was over up until close on to the midnight bell, to make their part of the play as near perfect as possible. Mr. Byer has been drilling them hard, and now they are ready for their appearance. The managers have also been hitting the dirt with full force, and the result is that the stage fixtures are all in place and the promises for good financial returns more than bright. The seats have been going fine, but there are still a few good seats for those who decide at the last minute that they would like to go to see the play.

The play has been previously stated, is for the benefit of the 1923 Maroon, the year book put out by the senior class of the school. This is a means used to supply the money needed for the publication in order that no advertisements will be needed to help out the subscription price.

SCHENECTADY R. R. GETS INJUNCTION

Schenectady, N. Y., May 18.—A temporary injunction was secured today by the Schenectady Railway Company from Supreme Court Justice Edward M. Angell to restrain Mayor Clarence A. Whittemore, Commissioner of Public Safety John E. Cole and Chief of Police James W. Rynex from interfering with the operation of cars during the trolley strike.

The injunction is returnable before Justice Angell at Hudson Falls on June 9. It will be bitterly fought by the city officials, who have declared they will seek to enforce a city ordinance which prohibits the operation of cars by strike breakers. It is reported the company, aided by a few of its old employees, will seek to resume operation on Monday morning.

Refusal of the company to recognize the trolleyman's union resulted in the strike, which was called at midnight Wednesday.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

In surrogate's court the will of John F. Herbert, Sr., late of the city of Kingston, has been admitted to probate. The value of the estate is given as not less than $19,000 real; not less than $19,000 personal. The gold watch and chain of decedent was bequeathed to John V. E. Herbert. Provision is made for a house for John F. Herbert, Jr.'s family. The remainder of the estate is devised and bequeathed in trust to Joseph M. Herbert, executor, to manage, improve, protect and care for the estate with power of sale, leasing, or transfer either real or personal, without bond. The trust is to terminate in ten years or in no event for a period longer than the lives of Alfred A. and John F. Herbert, Jr., but may be terminated at the discretion of the trustee who may divide and distribute said principal estate among the four sons, Joseph M., Alfred A., John F., Jr., and Leo F. Herbert, prior to the termination of ten years. The Kingston Trust Company is named as trustee to succeed Joseph M. Herbert, should he be succeeded by anyone, without bond. The trustee is to give support to Ellen Kirwan, sister of decedent, during the term of her natural life, the amount of which is left to the discretion of the executor and trustee, such payments to be continued for no longer term than the lives of the sons, Alfred A. and John F. Herbert, Jr. The rest of the income is to be divided quarterly equally between the four sons, Joseph M., Alfred A., John F., Jr., and Leo F. Herbert. Amos Van Eiten is the attorney for the petitioner.

The will and testament of Elvina G. Durbin, late of the city of Kingston, has been admitted to probate. Value of estate, $5,000 real; $500 personal. Joseph D. B. Styles, daughter, is the executor and principal legatee. Virgil H. Van Wageningen is attorney for the executor.

The last will and testament of Charlotte E. Smith, late of the town of Plattekill, has been admitted to probate. Value of estate $2,000 real; $300 personal. Oscar R. Smith and Peter D. Smith are the petitioners and executors. D. W. Ostrander is the attorney for the petitioners.

KRUPP APPEALS NOT ALLOWED

By Telegram to The Freeman. Dusseldorf, May 18.—Appeals lodged by Herr Krupp Von Bohlen und Halbach, president of the Krupp works, and seven directors from the long terms of imprisonment imposed upon them by a French military tribunal at Werden, after they had been found guilty of conspiracy, were rejected today.

Only one appeal was allowed: that of Herr Mueller, of the Krupp workmen's council, who had been sentenced only to six months.

It was alleged by the French that the Krupp officials were responsible for inciting disorders on March 21 when French troops opened fire killing 11 Germans.

The sentences imposed included 15 years' prison terms for Herr Krupp Von Bohlen, Director Hartwig and Director Ostertag; 20 year terms for Director Baum, Director Schriepfer, Director Kreple and Director Kuntz; a 10 year term for Director Bruhn and Herr Gross and six months for Mueller. Heavy fines were imposed in addition.

THIRTY SUSTAIN MINOR INJURIES IN WRBOK.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Chicago, May 18.—Scores of commuters riding on a suburban train laden principally with residents of Joliet, Ill., escaped death or serious injury today when four coaches of the train left the rails on Rock Island tracks here. Thirty persons were taken to hospital but none was said to have suffered more than minor injuries.

Two coaches toppled on their sides. No cause was given for the wreck.

Last Night's Boats.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Long Island City—Kid Kaplan, Meriden, Conn., knocked out Danny Drush, Cleveland, sixth round; Billy DeFeo, St. Paul, got the decision over Jack Hausner, New York, twelve rounds.

PESSENAR WON'T HAVE TO DIVIDE

In the supreme court a verdict of no cause of action was returned in the case brought by Nathaniel B. Gross against Joseph S. Pessenar to recover money for sale of property. An inquest was taken in the action brought by Joel Emerick against the Levy to recover damages to the automobile of plaintiff which was damaged in a collision on the Saugerties-West Camp road last December. Plaintiff testified that the cost of repairs to his car was $250.29. A verdict for the full amount was returned by the jury. William D. Brinler, Jr., appeared for plaintiff and there was no appearance on the part of defendant.

The next case taken up by the court was an action for damages brought by Sol. Zalfert and another against Stephen D. Bennett, H. Westlake, George Appers for plaintiff and Olson B. Murray for defendant. The selection of a jury was commenced shortly before noon.

RAILROAD PAYS 4 MORE CLAIMS

Four more actions growing out of the collision between a trolley car and West Shore train at Broadway crossing were disposed of at the present term of the Supreme court when settlement was reached, by the railroad paying plaintiffs.

The four actions grew out of the collision which took place in March 1918, between the early morning passenger train and a trolley car which was proceeding up Broadway. On the car were a number of passengers, two of whom were killed. Officer Boyd who was riding on the platform of the car, and Grove Webster, Jr., who was riding inside the car, both died as a result of the accident and in both cases verdicts were found against the railroad.

In the four cases which have been settled, William D. Brinler, Jr., appeared for plaintiffs and Amos Van Eiten represented the New York Central Railroad Company.

Jesse De Witt received $2,418.25; John A. Fisher, $250; Mike Latus, $426; Demko Melnik, $425. In settlement of their claims.

SCHOOL FIRE VICTIMS NOW 76

By Telegram to The Freeman. Camden, S. C., May 18.—The appalling toll of death taken in the Cleveland school fire mounted this afternoon to 76, fully half of them children, and bid fair to go higher before night because of the terrible injuries suffered by those who escaped the fire swept inferno.

A hurried consultation between health and city officials at noon today resulted in a decision that all of the victims, both identified and unidentified, will be buried at 6 o'clock tonight because of the condition of the bodies.

Adds Another Tank.

Jacob Johnson, owner of the large garage and gasoline station at 416 Washington avenue, which is leased and conducted by Ward J. Dunham, has just had installed in the rear of the property on the lowlands an additional gasoline storage tank of the capacity of 15,000 gallons. This with the other tanks, one of 12,000 gallons capacity, and one of 2,000 gallons, gives Mr. Dunham storage for 29,000 gallons, and five oil tank cars can be unloaded at one time from the O. and W. tracks.

Old Bridge Blocked Traffic.

Traffic on the West Shore Railroad Thursday afternoon was delayed when part of an old iron bridge which was being taken down by the railroad slipped from the crane and blocked both north and south bound tracks at Fort Montgomery. Wrecking crews from Weehawken and Kingston were sent to the scene. West Shore trains were sent from Weehawken over the Erie, making connections with the West Shore again at Cornwall. No one was injured.

Chicago Grain Market.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Chicago, May 18.—Wheat closed $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower. Corn finished $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ off. Oats closed $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ down.

Closing Prices.

Wheat—May, 118; July, 116 $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; Sept., 114 $\frac{1}{2}$. Corn—May, 80 $\frac{1}{2}$; July, 80; Sept., 78 $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$. Oats—May, 42 $\frac{1}{2}$; July, 42 $\frac{1}{2}$; Sept., 40 $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$.

Business Certificate Filed.

A certificate has been filed with the Ulster county clerk by Bart C. Wiene of Mt. Tremper that he is conducting a business at Cold Brook, under the name and style, "Wiene's Garage."

Food Sale Saturday.

The Girl Scout troop of the High School will hold a food sale on Saturday, May 19, at Wonderly's store on Wall street. The sale will begin at 11 o'clock.

Fischer Sells Lot.

Carl G. Fischer has sold to John Duffner a parcel of land on the east side of East Chester street, 465 100 feet.

Needs Repetition.

It has often been said that "honour is the best policy," but it hasn't been said often enough.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Stray Bits of Wisdom.

No book is worth anything which is not worth much; nor is it conceivable until it has been read, reread, and loved and loved again.—Rostia.

SOME SMILES

INDIFFERENT SWEARER

"So you played golf on earth?" asked St. Peter of the applicant for a pass and a halo.

"Yes."

"Hum, I'll have to look into your record a little more closely."

"I think I know what is on your mind," said the applicant, "and I can truthfully say I was no good at the language."

Safer.

"Jim," she said, as he settled down for a comfortable smoke, "I've got a lot of things I want to talk to you about."

"Good," said her husband, "I'm glad to hear it. Usually you want to talk to me about a lot of things you haven't got."—Lawyer and Banker.

As an Example.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torking, "don't you think a woman should be guided by the tastes of her husband?"

"Of course."

"So do I. That's why I'm going to have my hair cut short and learn to smoke."

Mean.

"What sort of a fellow is he?" "I'll tell you how bad he is. His wife sued him for divorce and put all the things she could think of in her bill of complaint and the things she called him actually flattered him."

Method in It.

"Mr. Flubdub heard you were sick."

"Well?"

"He calls up every day to see how you are. I did not think he was such a good friend of yours."

"Aw, he wants an apartment."

Good People.

"These people you have invited to your bridge party are not very interesting."

"Don't you worry. One lady loaned me the card tables and another loaned me the cards."

Home Discussion.

Said the young wife—"You were going to read the encyclopedia, but you didn't."

Said the young husband—"And you were going to work through the cook book. But have you?"

NOT RECIPROCAL

"Ah! Miss Duke! I hope I find you well?"

"Is that so. Well so for myself, I'm sorry you find me at all."

TOO EARLY TO PICK PENNANT WINNER

Therefore McGraw Declines to Predict Success for Giants—Race Doesn't Begin Until July 15.

(By David J. Walsh)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 18. Early speed being as deceptive as a politician's smile, John McGraw today declined to pick his New York Giants as prospective winners of their third successive National League pennant, in spite of appearances to the contrary. The Giants are four and a half games in front of the field at this immature moment but John seems to feel that you can't judge a meal by the board's covers.

"If this was September 1, and the Giants were going as they are now, I wouldn't mind chance a prediction," quoth John, his tones bland and unctuous. "As it is, injuries and the breaks mean too much to forecast anything months in advance. That is why I take issue with men who are hawking the alleged fact that the Giants have broken up the National League race. That contention is very silly."

"Why, the race doesn't actually begin until July 15. If the Giants were in the second division right now, I doubt whether it would cause me much concern, because I realize, as I am sure Pat Moran, Bill McKenzie, Bill Killefer and other managers do, that the clubs are only jockeying at this stage of the proceedings."

"I've been in baseball thirty-five years and that has been long enough to teach me the standing of the clubs in May is all too seldom an indication of their final rating. The calamity howlers will sing a different tune if the Giants strike a slump, which is not improbable. Every club gets one some time during a campaign."

McGraw looks upon the Reds, Cubs and Cardinals as being in the race.

"The Pirates didn't hit against our pitchers in the recent series, but the punch is there just the same," he declared. "I picked Pittsburgh during the offense as the principal contender but at the time I believe that Roush would not be with the Reds this year. However, I still think the Pirates are a faster club and will get slightly better pitching. Otherwise, the two clubs are a stand off."

The Cardinals and Cubs are good ball clubs. They are in contending positions and may challenge our lead at any time. In fact, the entire league is beginning to perk up. The Dodgers, for example, lost seven out of eight games to us at the start of the season and that fact, more than anything else, has contributed to our present position. We could hardly expect to repeat that performance now in view of the fact that the Dodgers have won something like eight of their last twelve games."

Girl Scouts' Dance.

The Girl Scouts who will have a "Say it With Music" dance at St. Mary's Hall on Tuesday evening, May 22, have secured Ferraro's orchestra of Glasco to render the dance program, and therefore good music is assured those who attend.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

It remained for Dick Rudolph, baseball's octogenarian, pitching this first complete game in four years, to shut out the Pirates 1 to 0, ten innings, and halt Charley Grimm's hitting rampage. Grimm had hit safely in twenty-five straight games. The Yanks made it two in a row from the Browns, hitting Shocker, their arch enemy at will and winning, 9 to 2. Ruth hit his fifth homer of the season. Every one took a swing during the course of the Giants' 13 to 6 victory over the Reds, home runs rattling off the bats of Menzel, Roush and Kelly.

The Senators pulled out a 3 to 2 decision over the White Sox in the tenth. Evans producing the winning run with a sacrifice fly. Lefty Helms didn't have a great deal to do with the Athletics 4 to 2 victory over the Indians, except that he held the latter to four hits, in addition to scoring a run after hitting a triple in third and doubling with two on in the ninth. The Cardinals rode hard Grimes in the seventh, scoring runs and beating the Dodgers, 3 to 0. Cy Williams smote his fourteenth home run of the campaign but Phillies lost with their customary facility, the Cubs winning this 7 to 4. Alexander of the C passed three men in the sixth, pitching fifty-one innings without issuing a base on balls or hitting batsman.

The Tigers gained a 6 to 2 victory over the Red Sox in spite of Ray's good pitching. Helms' hitting streak was broken at twenty-one games.

Equal Bird Rights.

Homing pigeons probably are due to the human family than any other form of winged life. The birds are remarkable intelligent, says Nat magazine. They mate in pairs, the female of each union has cleared her right of suffrage in the tent that the male helps her in hatching out the eggs and in caring and feeding the young.
